EVENTS OF A BUSY SCHOOL YEAR

EVENTS—DANCES, BANQUETS, pep sessions, assemblies, grade cards—crowd the year of busy Centralites who seek the fullest personality development in a well-rounded program. Most of these events pave the way to graduation, the final chapter of the high school career. By learning through doing, by taking part in the life of their school, seniors gain the qualities of service, character, leadership, and scholarship to serve them as alumni.

LEAD STEADILY TOWARD GRADUATION

GRADUATING SENIORS march in long procession from the Lewis Street door of Central to attend Baccalaureate Services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Sunday, June 6, 1943. OPPOSITE PAGE: Future generations will graduate, keeping pace with a changing world.

SCHOOL BEGINS! FROSH ARRIVE, WE

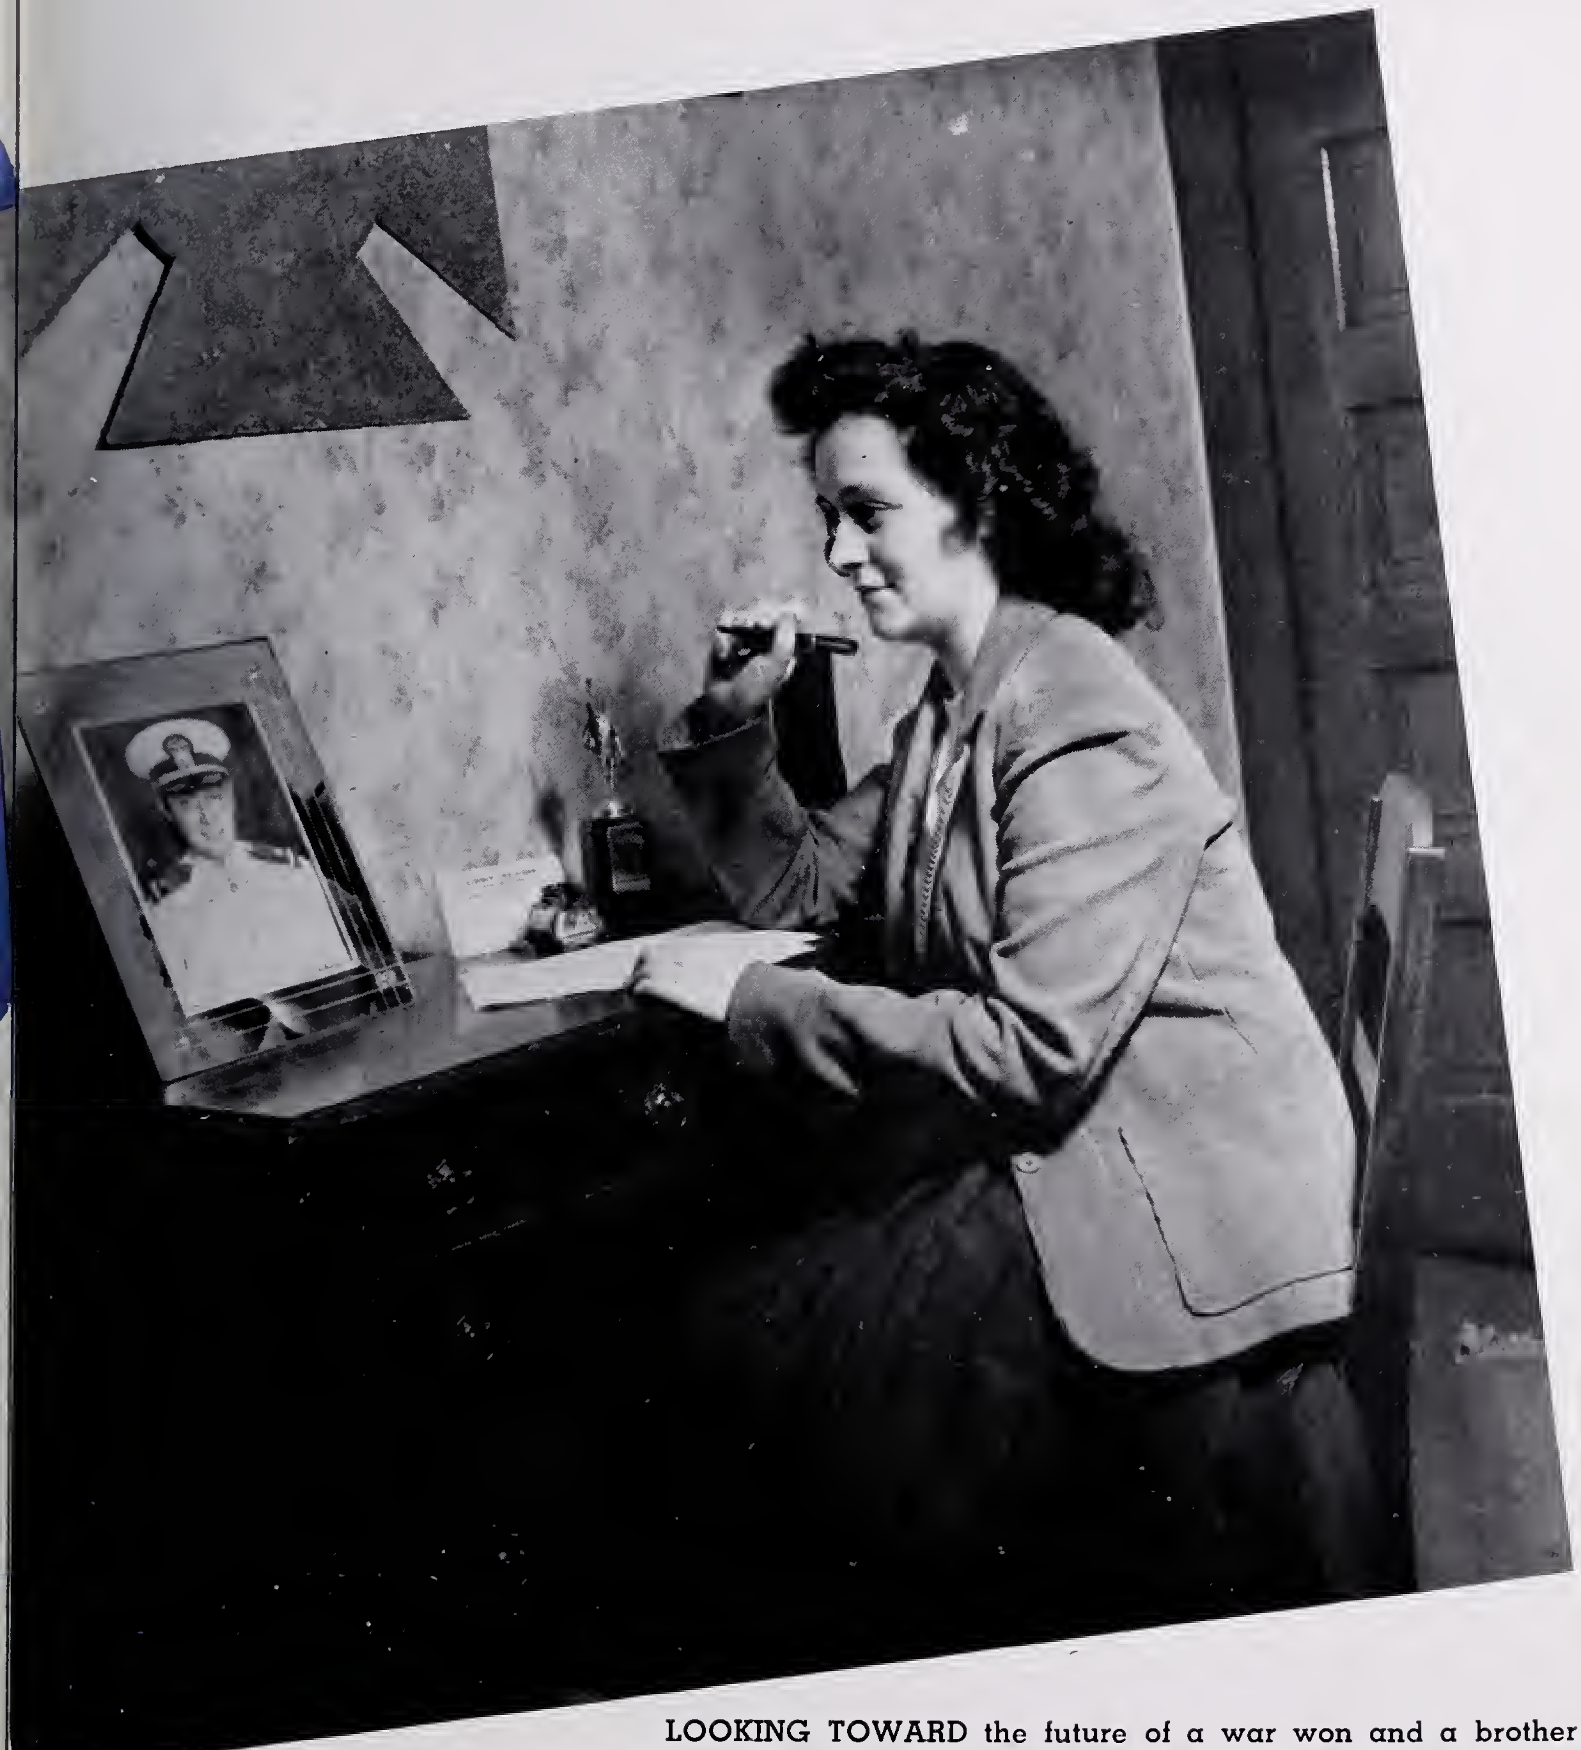
CENTRAL, HERE AND ABROAD, SEEKS

WAR! THE RUSH to work at the 3:15 bell, Tuesday sale of stamps and bonds, letters to brothers on foreign fronts, mathematics for future fighting men—all mean Central at War! The grim effort makes us a determined Central, recognizing that victory by arms must come at whatever cost and that the future will bring us victory. With pupils preparing in school, and graduates serving in all theaters of conflict, Central is fighting the War.

FIRST OUR WINNING THE WAR



LOOKING TOWARD the future of a war won and a brother returned, Mona Lou O'Shaughnessey, senior, writes a letter to her brother at his desk in his room at home. He is Ensign Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Central graduate, 1938, now assigned to the South Pacific. On the desk is a Central speech trophy won by Herschel. OPPOSITE PAGE: Central boys look forward to adventure awaiting them in all theaters of the War.

ALL OVER THE world, Centralites carry the spirit of "Fighting Central" to the enemy in fields of grim engagement. From the classroom to the battlefield—a long step it is for them to take — but Centralites fight with confidence. At Anzio, Cassino, Salerno, Tunis, El Alamein, in England, in Sicily and at all points of invasion, Central men display the mettle and courage which will assure a future world of happiness for all nations — when our boys can pursue the peace-time careers for which they have trained.

TO THE STEAMING jungles of New Guinea, to Australia, New Zealand, Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Hollandia, the Bismarck Sea, Wewak, Rabaul, and Burma—Centralites in the Armed Forces carry mathematics, physics, chemistry, meteorology, machine training, and other subjects to make them better fighters. In scenes of mortal combat, these boys may owe their very lives to instruction gained within the gray walls of Central. Four years of training at Central, both academic and technical, prepare our graduates to enter into the program of the Armed Services for Uncle Sam.

NAMES of Richard Miller, Kenneth Davies, and Duane Jones stand high on Central's field of honor. These boys achieved greatness as plain young Americans who accepted their responsibility willingly and answered the nation's call. They were cut down in their prime — "Like some rich hyacinth which by the . . . scythe has been cut . . . and lies a fragrant tower of purple bloom" — but not before they had proved their valor and had left a record for others to emulate. The records of Richard Miller, Kenneth Davies, and Duane Jones at Central and in the service of their country present an account of their true worth. In honor of these young men who have given their "last full measure of devotion," Central pledges not to relinquish her efforts until the cause for which they died is won.

How Central Helps

TO WIN the war, Americans must strike now, and strike hard! Central strikes at every opportunity by learning first-aid, building planes, running machines, mailing Spotlights, buying bonds, keeping physically fit, and aiding the needy. Now, especially, is Central contributing to the war effort in many ways. To the boys at the front, Central says, "We help!"

LETS GET THIS SHIELD UP!

UPPER LEFT: Doris Ryder, managing editor, and LaVon Bohde, editor of the Spotlight, are patriotically happy as they mail Spotlights to service men. CENTER: Mr. Richardson's home room, 223, sold more than their quota in the Fourth War Loan Drive, as shown by the stickers they are pasting on the window. RIGHT: Miss Keep and Mr. Windmiller sell stamps Tuesdays. MIDDLE LEFT: Charles Matlock shows Margaret Metheny the tricks of the trade in machine shop. RIGHT: Boys in physical fitness class "limber up" before trying some of the more difficult exercises. BOTTOM LEFT: Celo Fosnaugh heads the committee for bond and stamp sales on Tuesday morning in Room 219. RIGHT: The Central Dames, Central's sewing group, contribute to the war effort, as they sew to aid in community projects.

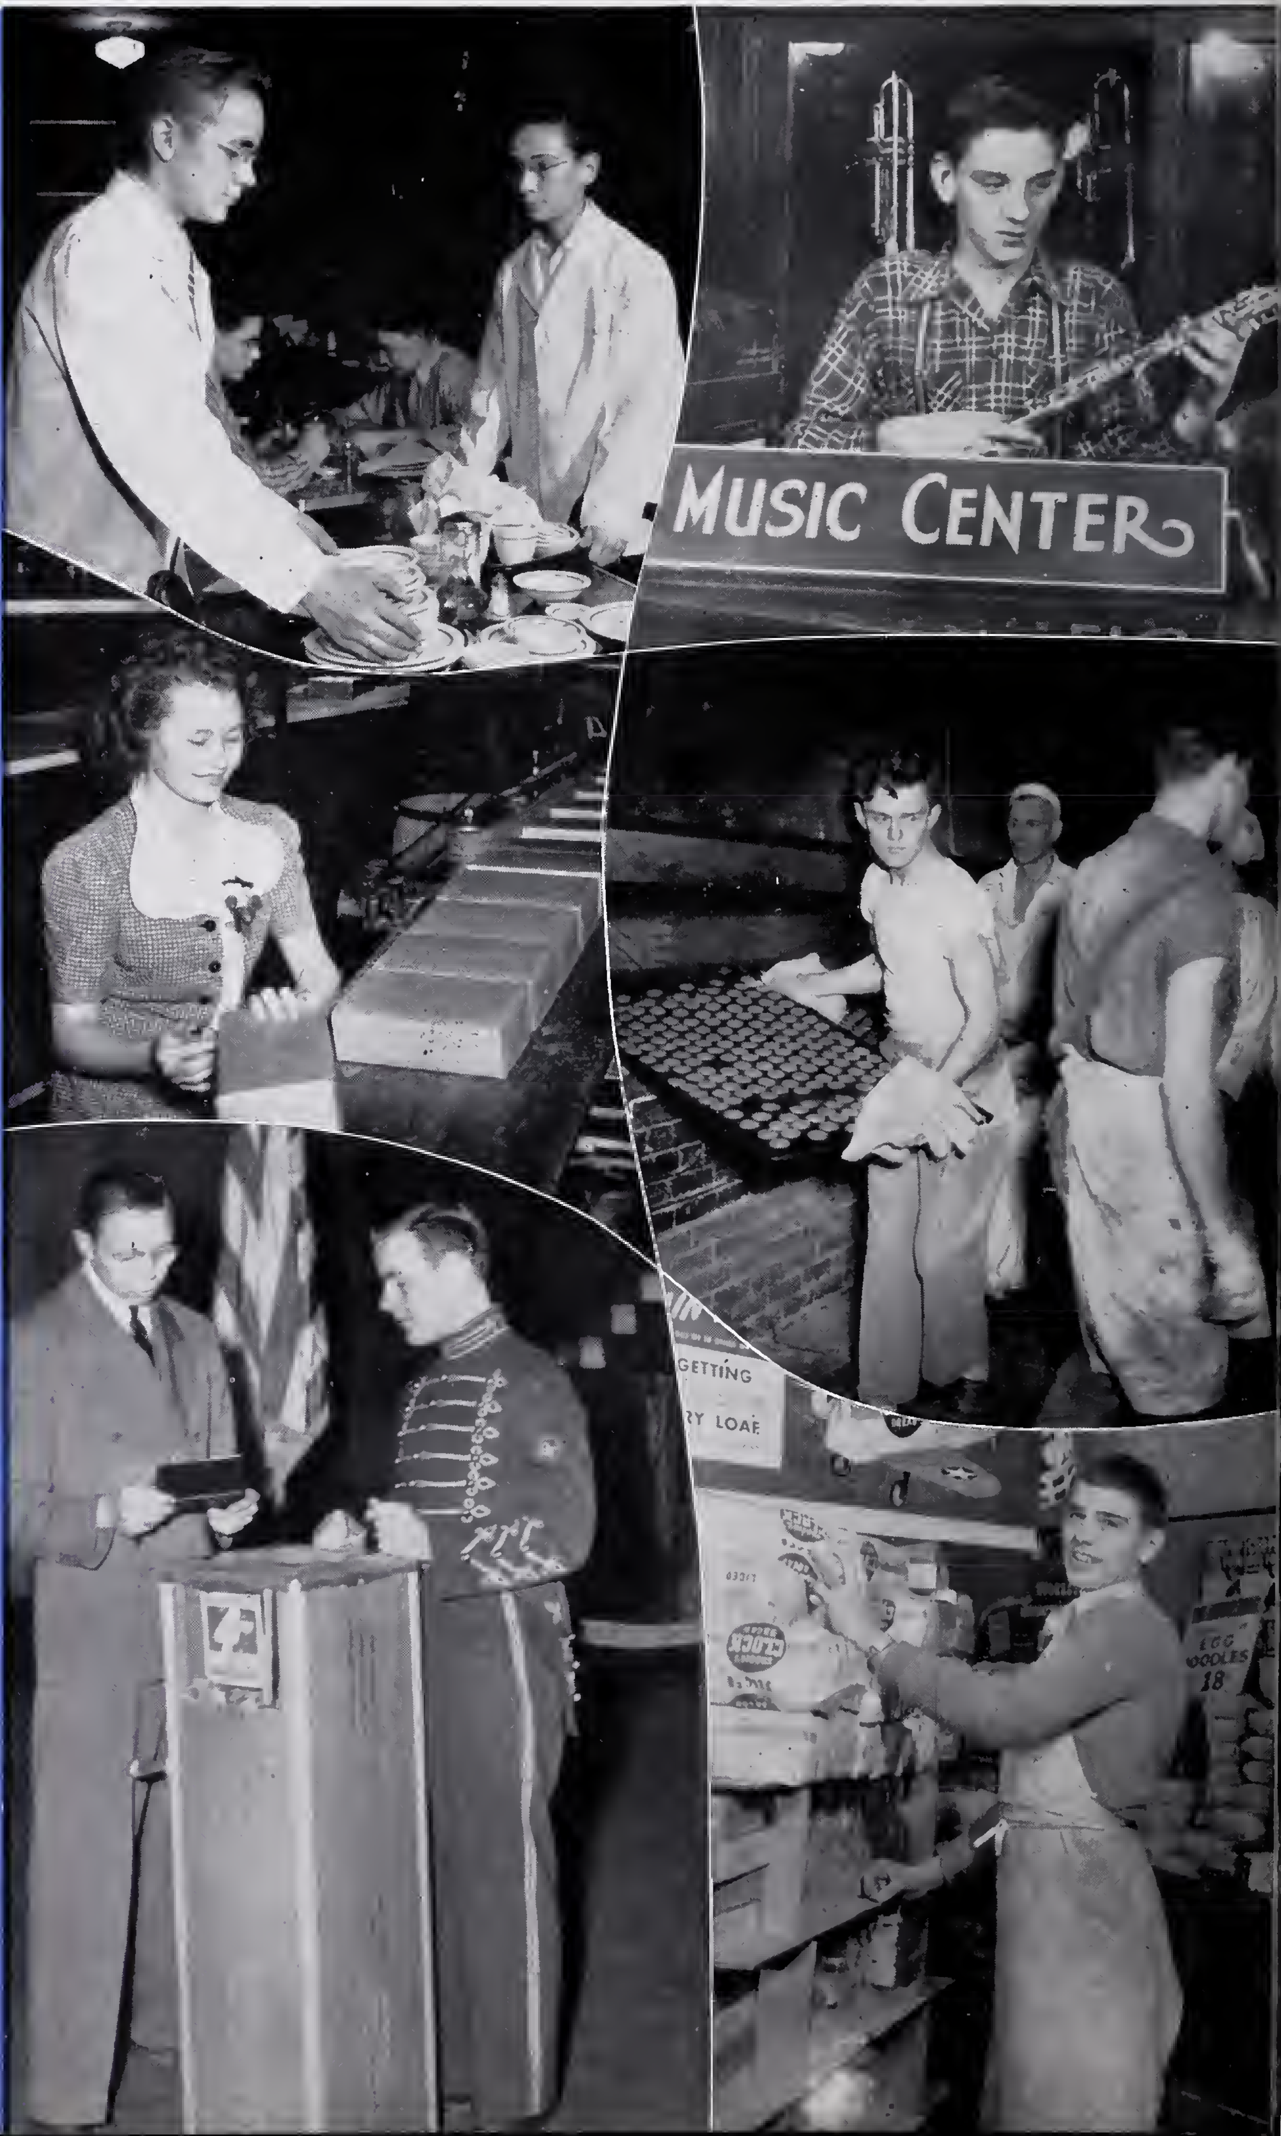
HE'S FIGHTING FOR YOU

Centralites Work to Buy

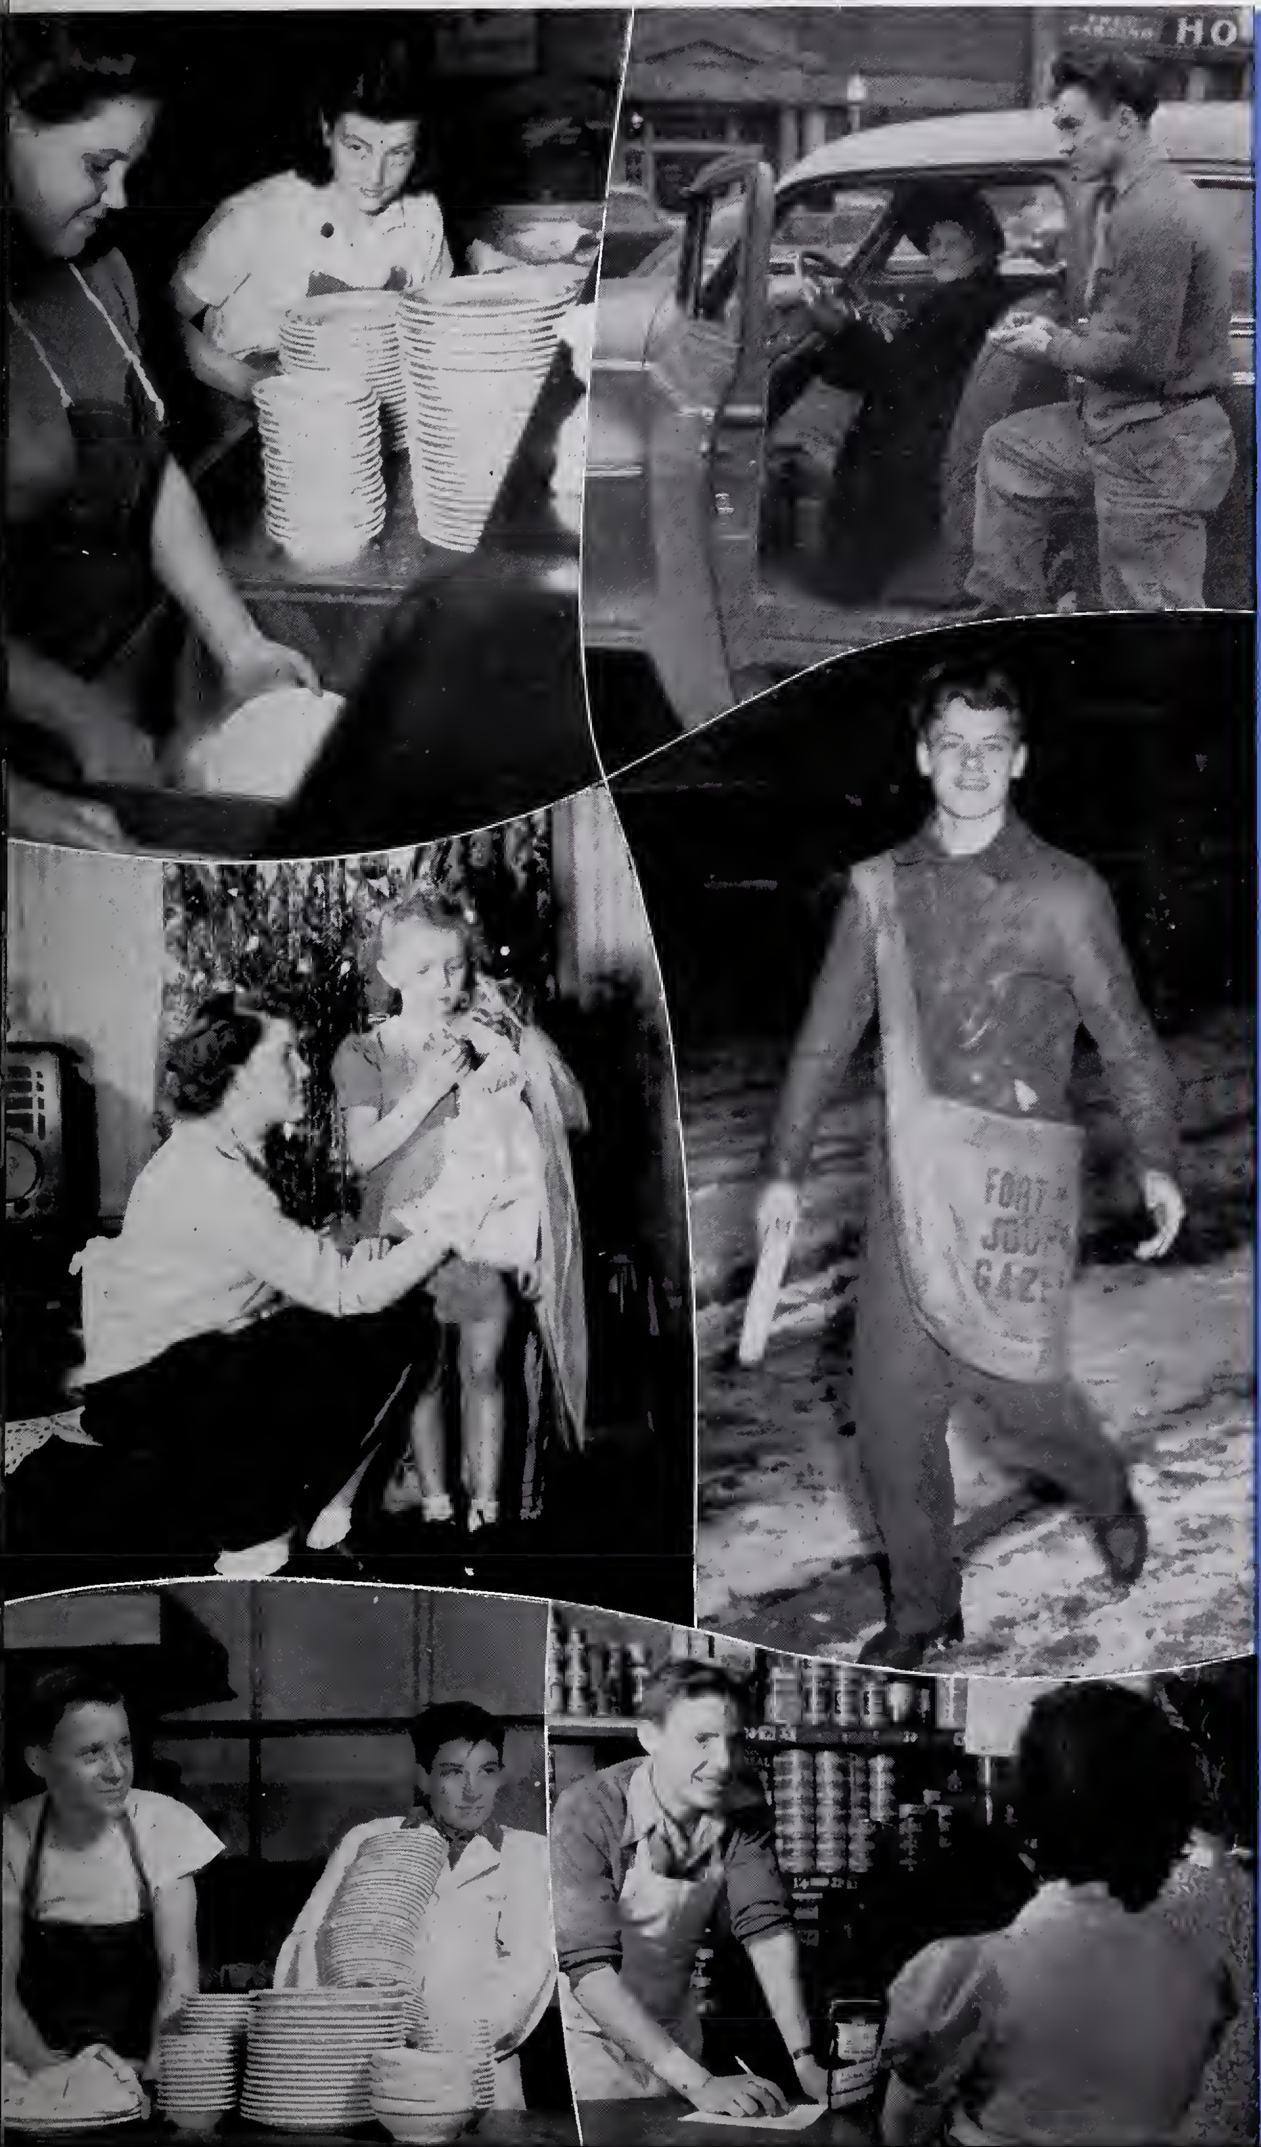
DAVID DOENGES and Ralph Tatman, underclassmen, here are doing their bit for victory by working as "bus boys" in Miller's Cafeteria after school . . . DONALD BENDEL displays a metal clarinet at Thain's Music Mart. He earns money for stamps and bonds and learns something about the field of music.

ANITA DRIVER, sophomore, seals packages of graham crackers on the assembly line at the Perfection Biscuit Company. Anita is earning money for bonds . . . BOB STETZEL, junior, spends his extra time working at the Perfection Biscuit Company. Here he is removing pans of cookies from the oven, a step in the baking process.

SAM FORTNEY, junior, is getting instructions from the assistant manager, Roger Springer, at the Palace Theater. Sam is neatly attired in his uniform as an usher . . . DAVID STEPHANS, sophomore, and an after-school clerk at a neighborhood Kroger store, is helping a customer in her selection of groceries for the week end.



More Bonds for Victory



EVA WRIGHT and Edith Jackson, freshmen, are contributing time during their lunch hour to wash and stack dishes in the kitchen in Central's cafeteria . . . MAX RAMSEY, senior, checks a ticket for a customer at the Clinton and Wayne Street parking lot, where he worked on Saturdays.

JANE BRAGER cares for little Sharon Weber, her niece whom she superintends during extra hours. Here they dress a doll with hair made from Sharon's . . . ARNOLD PATTON, newsboy, covers a morning route for the Journal-Gazette. Every morning Patton rises at 4 A. M. in order to deliver the papers on time.

GAIL ROGERS and Donald Harkness, Central boys, do their bit by working in the kitchen at Miller's Cafeteria. Here they wash and stack dishes . . . RICHARD GRUBER, sophomore, spends his spare time clerking in a neighborhood Kroger store. He offers suggestions to the customers and helps them order wisely.

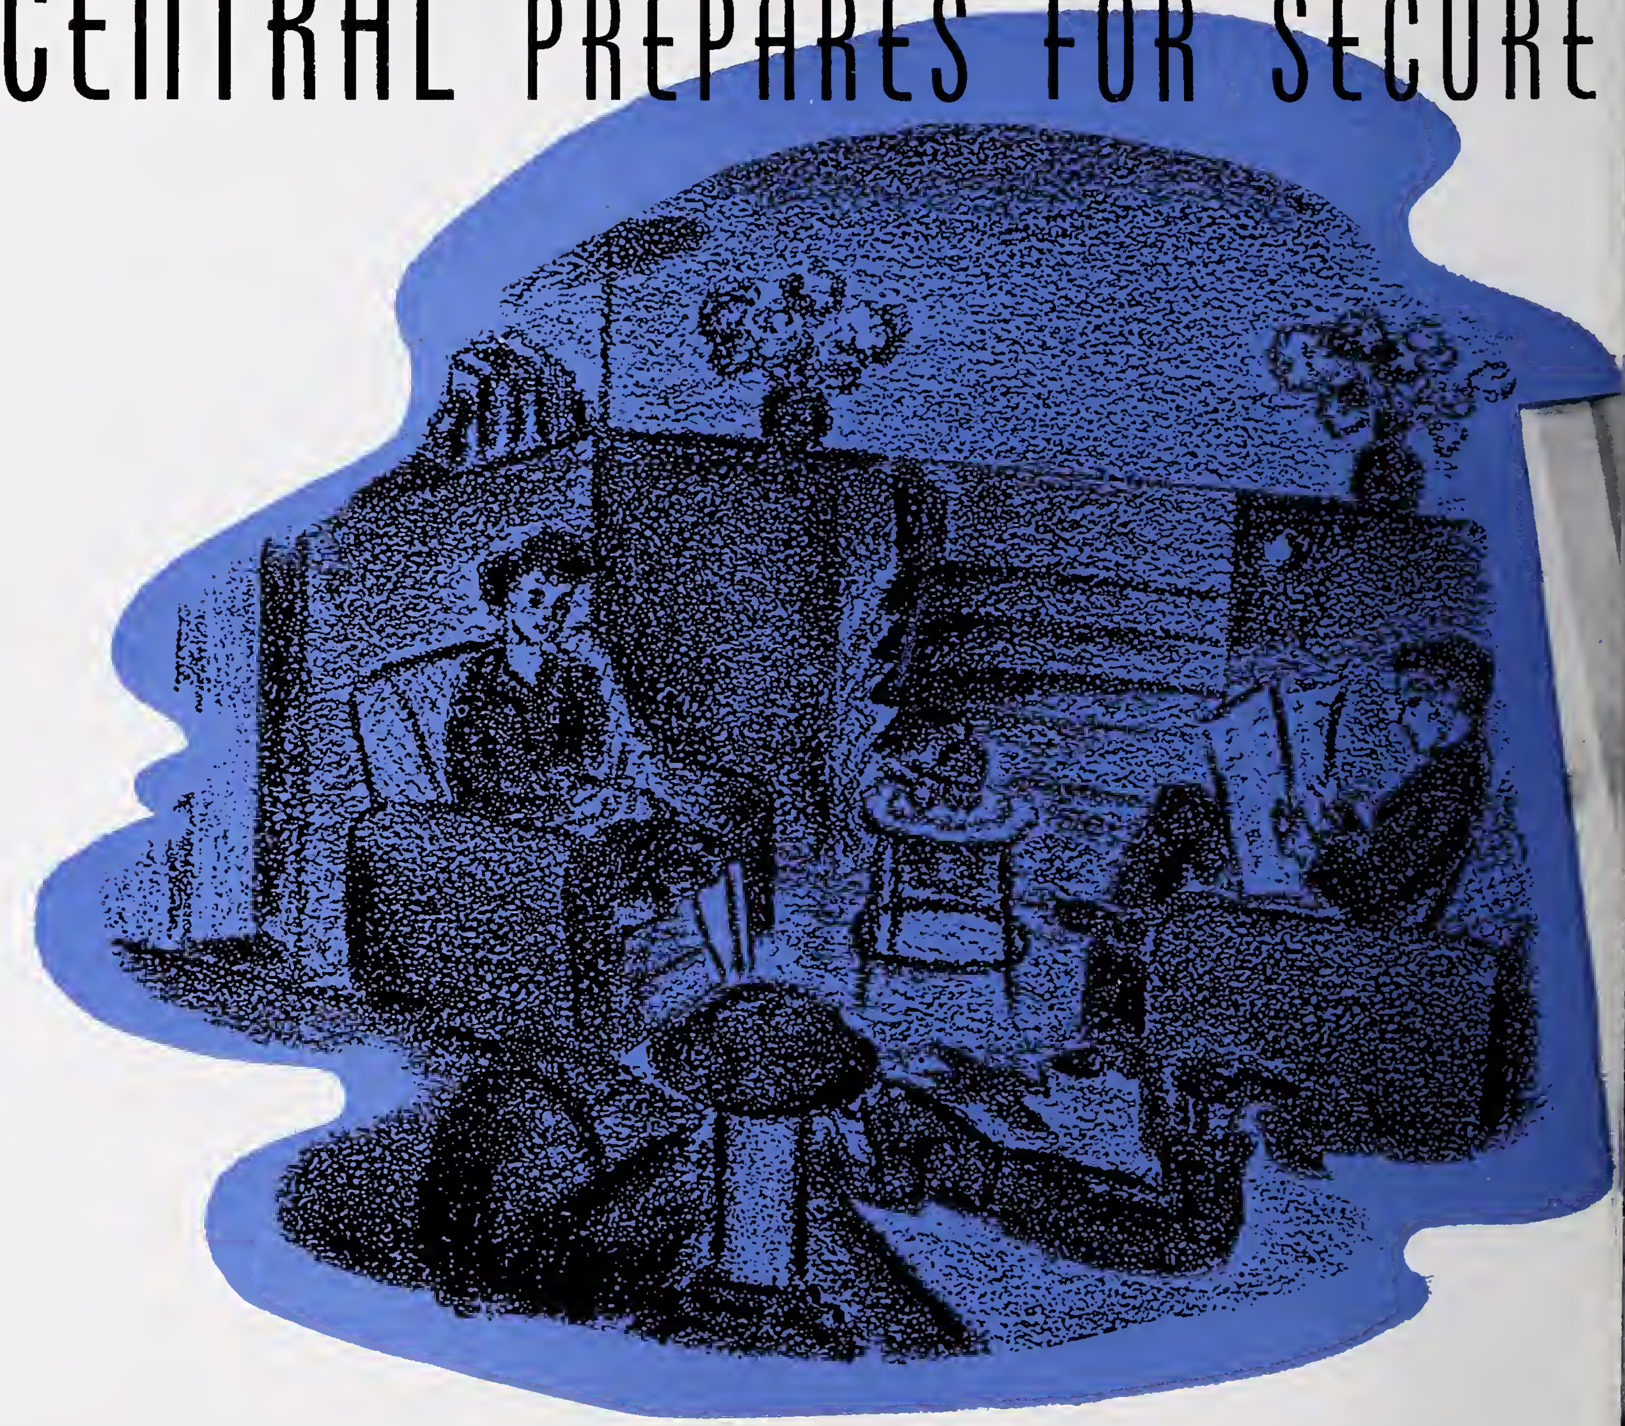
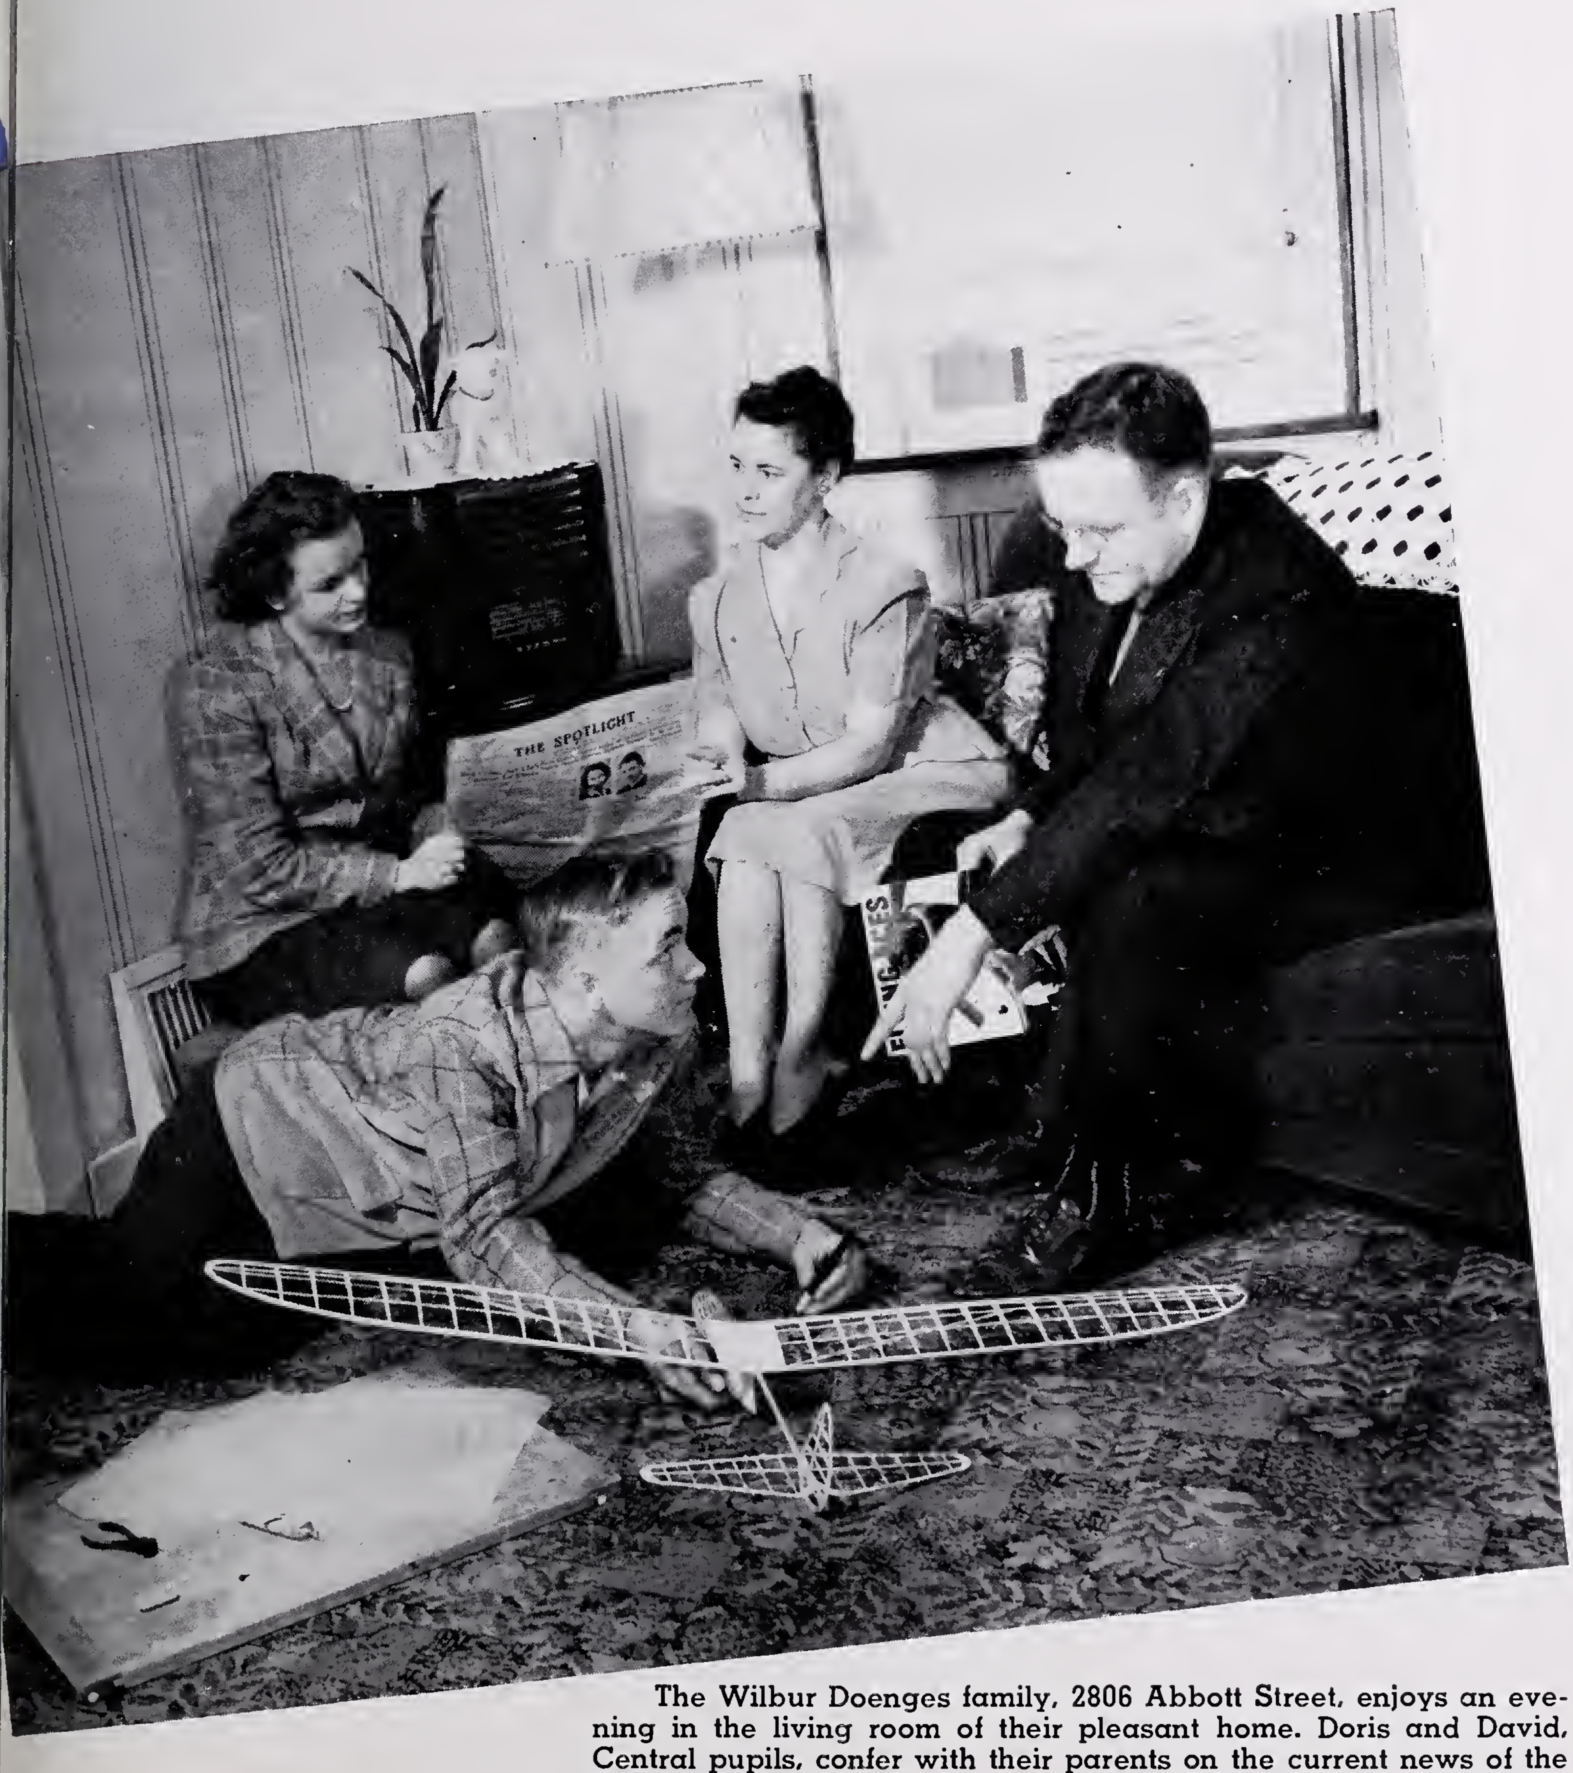
CENTRAL PREPARES FOR SECURE



PEACE WILL COME again — and for that time Central pupils now study in their many classrooms. In English classes, for example, they learn fine living from the philosophy of the immortal classics; in citizenship, the art of living with one another peacefully; in music, culture from masters, old and modern, to enrich their lives; and, in art, beauty and loveliness for homes of the future. In short, Centralites learn not only how to make a living, but also how to live.

AND HAPPY LIVING IN PEACE



The Wilbur Doenges family, 2806 Abbott Street, enjoys an evening in the living room of their pleasant home. Doris and David, Central pupils, confer with their parents on the current news of the Spotlight and the fine points of airplane construction. Mr. and Mrs. Doenges, whose romance sprang from their high school days at Central, still follow the events and fortunes of Central High School. OPPOSITE PAGE: The home of the future will make more happy the lives of Central graduates.

From a thousand
Central homes come
these many pupils who enter Central to learn to live fully and wisely.

Pupils rush to classes where they will find rich and varied instruction in a modern curriculum.

auto • typing • French

MR. HEMPHILL is explaining the valve system of an automobile to Paul Imler, Bud Browning, and Wilford Kinsey, in the auto shop. The boys apply the instruction to repair projects on actual automobiles driven into the shop.

THESE girls in Mr. Windmiller's second period typing class seem to have their hands full, watching their copy books and keeping their hands going correctly. By concentrating while in school, these girls will merit better jobs after graduation.

"ICI on parle francais." Don't be bewildered. It simply means, "Here they speak French." This freshman class of Miss Brigham is learning the fundamental rules and regulations of French. French has long been considered the language of diplomacy and culture.

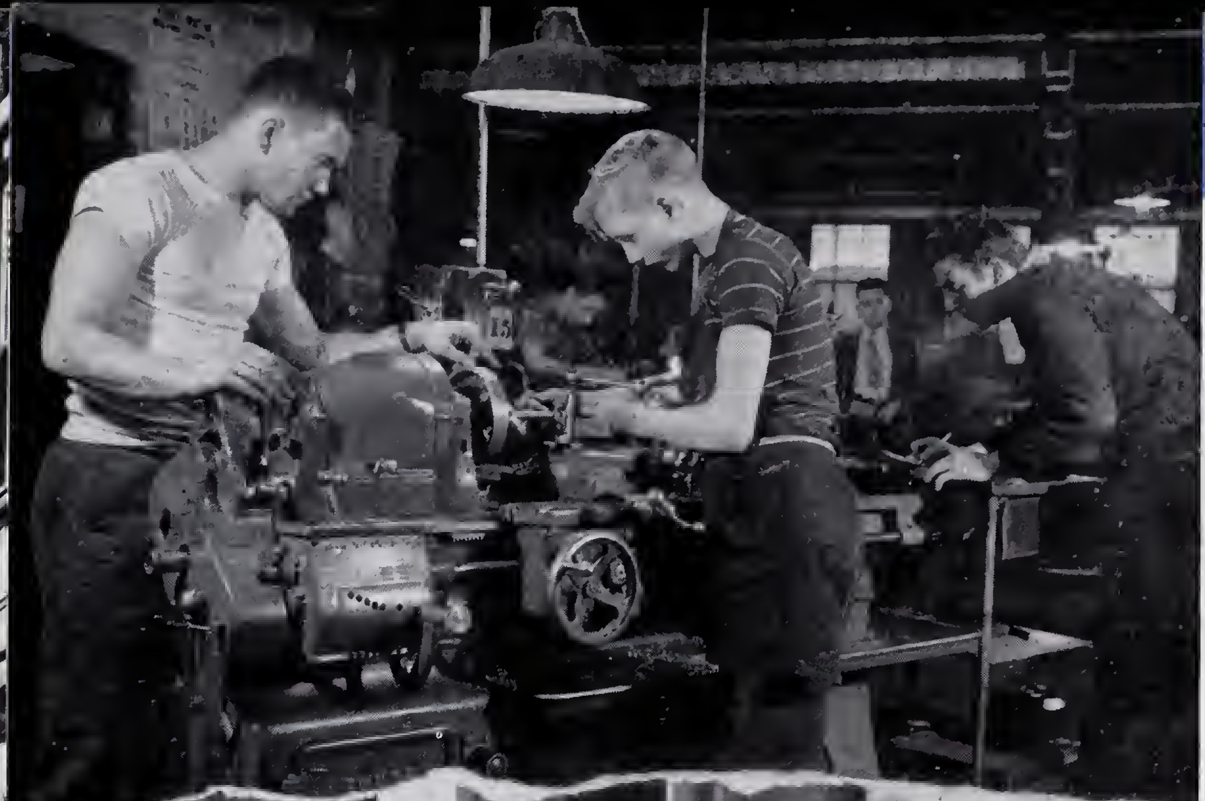
art • English • music

How's It With You?
You'll Be Treated Fairly

THESE girls, in Miss Ley's art class, are toiling away on murals, representing our daily school activities, to be placed in the halls, where in the future they will be reminders to passing students. At the left are Mr. Croninger and Miss Lewis. Can you find them?

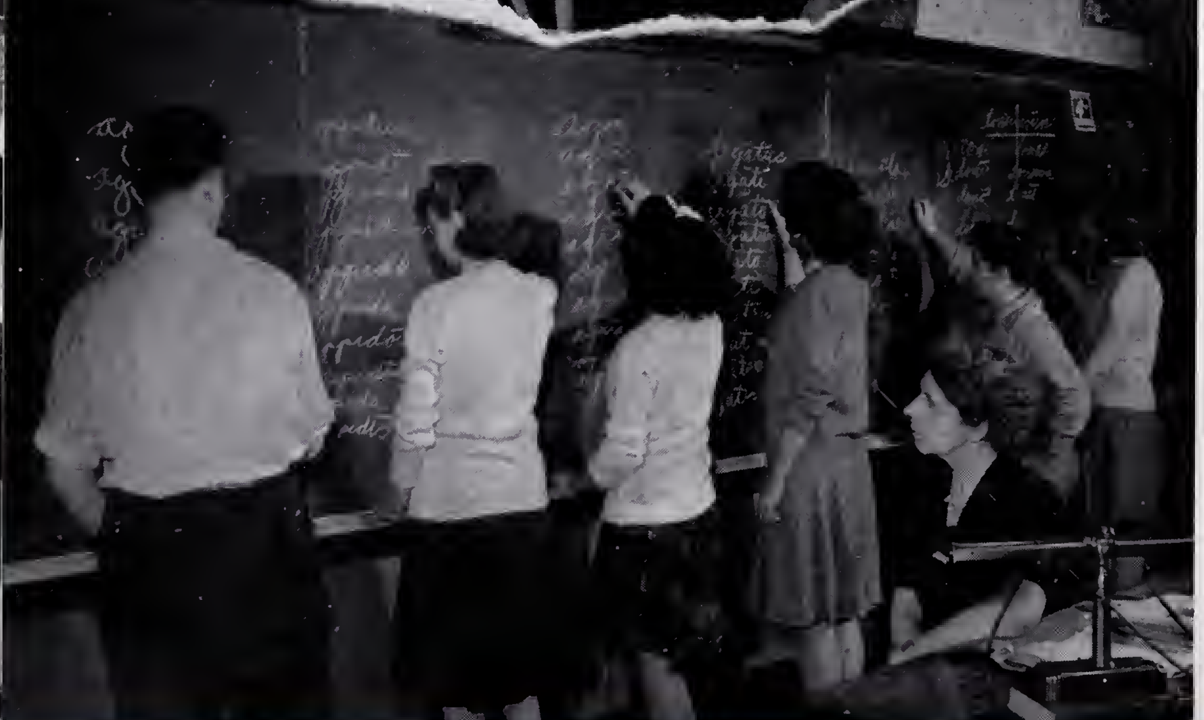
STUDY of sentence construction intrigues the freshmen of Miss Kuhn's English class. These pupils learn analytical grammar by diagramming sentences — an aid to clear, grammatical thinking and an introduction to thoughtful composition, both written and oral.

YOUNG musicians, in Mr. Bailhe's first period instrumental class, play for enjoyment and musical progress. They learn not only how to play in orchestral groups but also how to appreciate good music.



MAX RAMSEY shows Gene Paulus the method of reading a micrometer in machine shop. Today accurate and precise measuring is essential in modern industry; here in Central's well-equipped shops the boys are trained for these future jobs of precision.

MODERN Design! These future artists are putting the finishing touches on an art study of designing up-to-date clothes. Talented students are given fine opportunities to develop their skills in the art department, preparing for professions in the world of art.



MISS LUCASSE keeps a guiding eye on this group of Latin students as they put their noun declensions on the blackboard. Through Latin these Centralites will get a more thorough foundation for the English language and a careful preparation for the professions.

machine shop • art • Latin

history • geometry • biology

ANXIOUS to learn are these pupils in Mr. Richardson's United States history class. Knowledge of the trials, events and experiences of our country will help our future leaders carefully plan the steps to be taken in years to come.

FRED HAAG proves a proposition in geometry class to Max Hoffman and class members under the supervision of Miss Christman. Careful oral explanations clarify the problems to those who are in doubt and develop the pupils' reasoning power.

HERE these biology students await their turn while others carefully examine the cell structure of leaves through a microscope. Being able actually to see these things, pupils all through life take more interest in the study of plants and animals.

journalism • physics • electricity

JOURNALISM students are learning to lay out newspapers and read proof during class, taught by Mr. Fleck. Although few will enter newspaper work vocationally, all will know how to read newspapers more intelligently and become better informed citizens.

PHYSICS class members gather around Mr. Veatch to observe as he expertly demonstrates an interesting experiment of electrolysis proving that water is H2O and nothing else. This 11B class is composed wholly of boys except for one girl, Barbara Mendenhall.

ELECTRICIANS of Mr. Wilson's class are exploring the intricacies of radio. These boys test and repair radios. Modern equipment and expert supervision will give boys electrical knowledge and skills necessary to leaders so important in modern industrial life.

library • machine shop • auto

THESE pupils are doing research work in the library during the first period, under the supervision of Miss Beierlein. In the right background is the new Kiwanis magazine rack, and in the rest of the background are a few of the available books and reference materials.

KIWANIS BUIL

BOYS and girls in Room 84, machine shop, are turning out pieces on lathes. The row of lathes in the left of the picture are the newest, having been purchased this year from the NYA. Central is noted for its splendid vocational shops.

YOUNG mechanics in this auto class under the watchful supervision of Mr. Hemphill, teacher, are testing cylinders and giving motors a general inspection. These lessons in precision and mathematical exactness make master machinists, to serve in war and later in peace.

MR. FERLINI gets the attention of his 9A algebra class to explain and clarify the problem of multiplying binomials. At the blackboard pupils demonstrate their solutions and await direction. No problem is too difficult for them to solve with Mr. Ferlini's guidance.

THIS GROUP of home economics girls is enjoying a correctly planned breakfast planned by themselves. Under the supervision of Miss Keegan the cooking classes are taught to plan, prepare, and serve well-balanced meals and observe good table manners at all times.

MISS BYERS stands ready to aid her sewing class in making and designing skirts and blouses. These girls, in learning how to sew, will have unique and attractive garments with well-constructed seams and darts. No matter what profession they enter, they can still make use of their sewing.

algebra • cooking • sewing

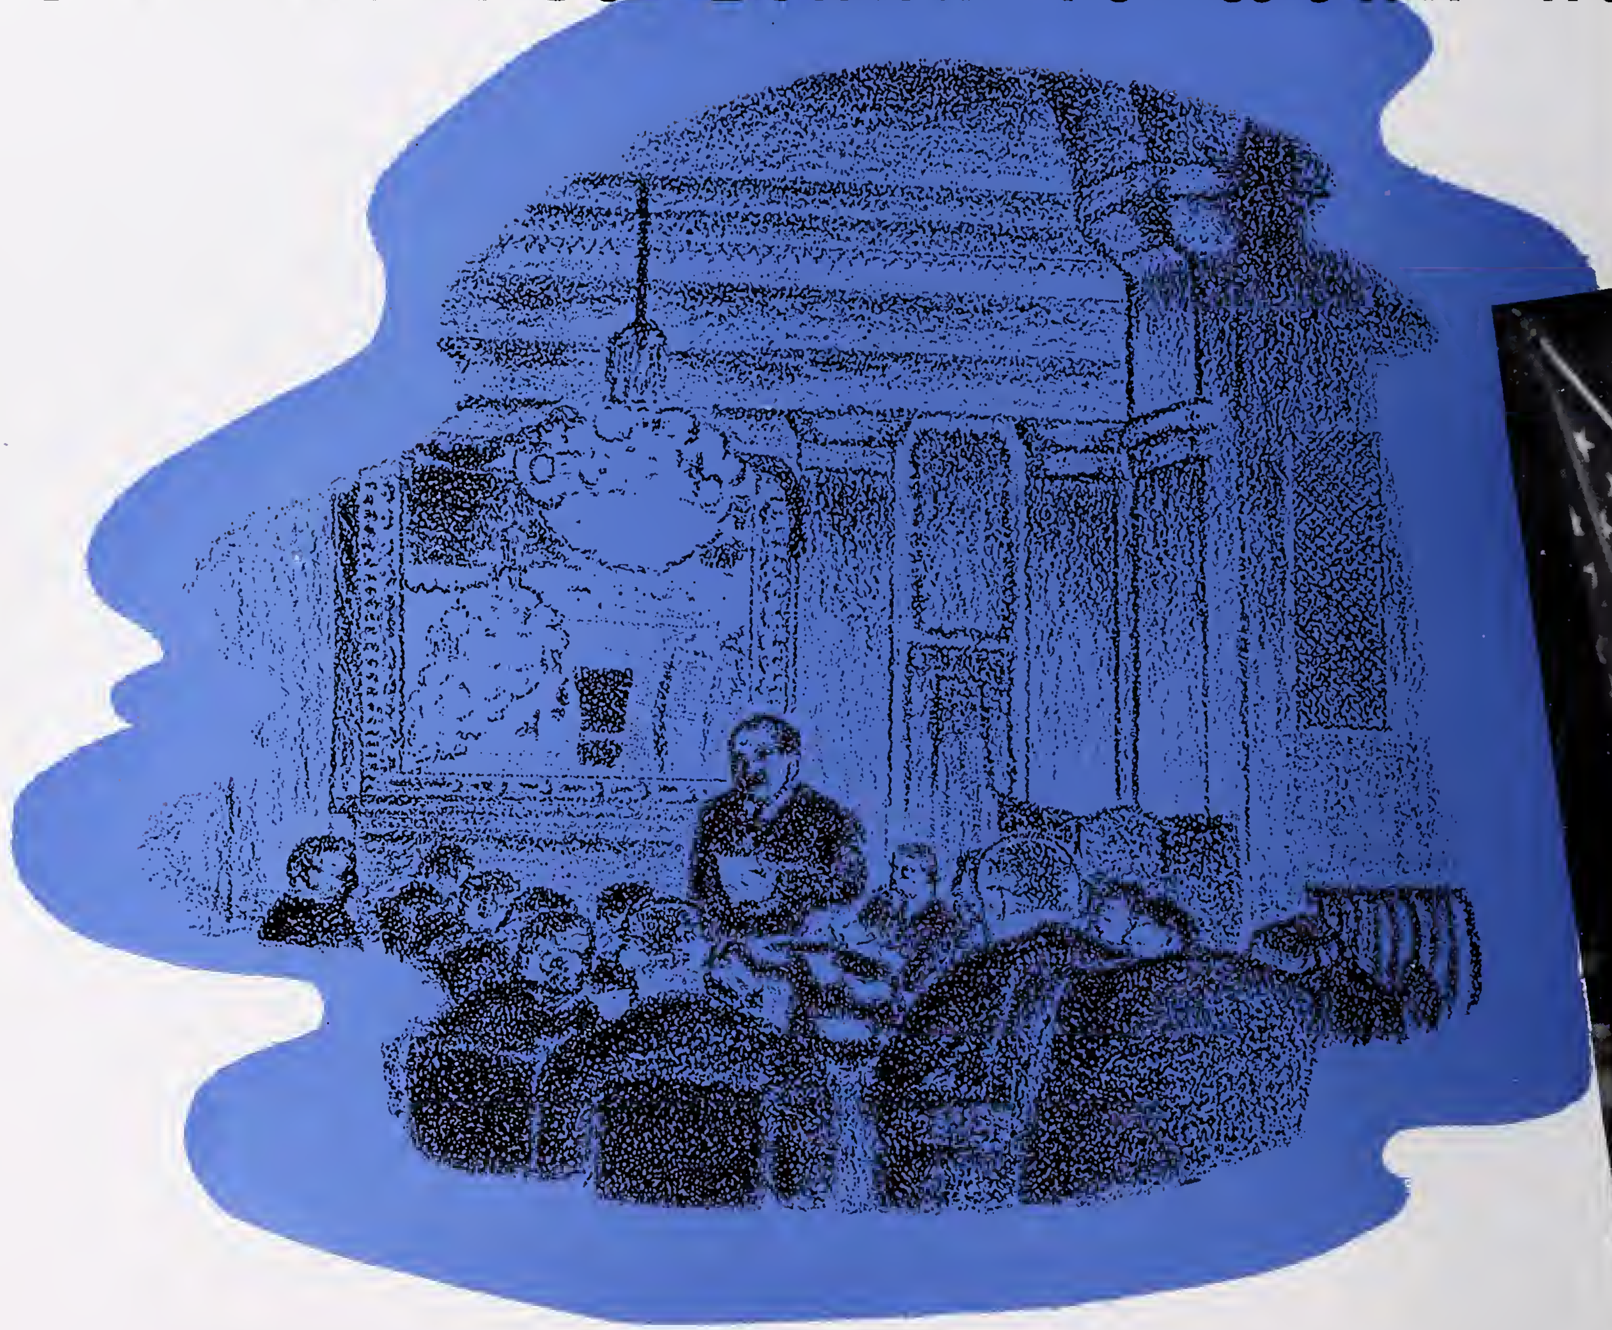
special • speech • shorthand

MR. ARNOLD is carefully checking measurements on shop drawings of plans made by boys from the special room so that they will know how to proceed on their projects. Skills gained here will make experienced workmen in years to come.

JEAN KOORSEN, prosecuting attorney, cross-examines Defense Witness Lois Whetsel during a court trial in Mr. Earle's third period speech class. Speech students learn to think quickly and speak fluently on a moment's notice — valuable training for leaders in democracy.

THESE 12A girls take rapid dictation from Miss Heal during second period. Later, the shorthand will be transcribed on the typewriter. After training at Central, these girls can get and hold secretarial positions in the busy world of business.

CENTRALITES LEARN TO WORK AS



BY WORKING IN GROUPS, Central pupils learn how to get along with people, how to cooperate. By working together, members of Central groups speak, sing, write, dramatize plays, publish our paper, sell at games, give concerts—and have fun! These outside activities, which boost interest in the entire school program, not only build strong personalities but also prepare young people for leadership in the post-war world.

CITIZENS in SCHOOL GROUPS

As Central's flag follows the Stars and Stripes, so Central follows the teachings of Americanism. Doris Leon and the Twirlers, one of Central's groups, march at the Kendallville game, Saturday, February 12. Opposite page: Senator Sam Jackson, '14, addresses a Senate committee.

Student Council

◆ debates problems,
◆ finds the lost.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL in its present form was reorganized by Miss Mildred Brigham three years ago. Its main purpose is to create an understanding between the faculty and the students.

The Student Council is made up of members from each home room. They meet the first period every other Wednesday. Discussions are held and members sign up for work in two of the organization's most active projects, the Lost and Found in the office and the game corner in the cafeteria.

The Student Council Cabinet is made up of all the officers of all the classes. It meets the first period on alternate Wednesdays. Topics for discussion at meetings are presented. Cabinet members are appointed as chairmen of the most active committees so that they can keep in close contact with the work that is being done.

Besides the Lost and Found and game corner, the Student Council sponsors two dances annually. The "Goblin's Gambol," held at Halloween, featured the typical witches, black cats, and jack-o-lanterns. Members made a bulletin board for Room 245, painted islands in the center hall, and decorated the Guidance Office.

—By PEGGY SHEPHERD.

WHEN YOU come to a meeting of the Mathematics Club, you are assured of an unusual, enjoyable evening. There is always something new and interesting at every club meeting because of the splendid guidance of our faithful advisers.

The Mathematics Club is the oldest high school club in Fort Wayne. It was founded in 1913 by Mr. D. W. Werremeyer and Mr. John R. Clark. Since that time, the club has flourished and expanded until it is one of the largest and most popular clubs of the school. Any 10A Geometary student is eligible for membership.

The main event of this year was the Thirtieth Anniversary Banquet held at the YWCA December 6, 1943. Because of of the illness of President Millard Gruber, Miss Mary E. Gardner, head of the Mathematics Department, acted as toastmaster. Club colors, red and white, were combined with Central's blue and white to give a patriotic color scheme throughout the decorations. There was an interesting program of talks with songs and violin solos by Mary Fowler, accompanied by Mrs. Gaston Bailhe.

The end of a perfect year came with the delightful annual picnic, held in May, at Foster Park.

The presidents were Millard Gruber, first semester, and Robert Willy, second semester. Advisers are Miss Mary E. Gardner, Miss Marie H. Christman, and Miss Dorothy Ridgway.—By PHYLLIS BOESTER.

FIELD TRIPS, when members have a chance to observe birds and trees, breakfasts, and after-school picnics, lend both enjoyment and education for the outdoor-minded members of Nature Club.

Under the guidance of Miss Iva Spangler, the Club finds that "The trees and the skies and the lanes and the brooks are more full of fun than all of the books."

The active members try to do all possible to further the purpose of the Club. Some of the most outstanding activities were autumn bird hikes in the city parks, a trip to the Swinney Museum, and two meetings with guest speakers.

This year members of Nature Club began to construct a herbarium of plants found in Allen County. The project will be continued for some time.

The Nature Club belongs to the Indiand Junior Academy of Science, of which high school science clubs throughout Indiana are members. Each year the Academy awards pins to worthy members who have earned a required number of points. These points are earned through regular attendance, giving service to the Club, and doing special projects. The Club also presents a certificate to active members.

STEP INSIDE the library during school hours and you will find members of the Library Service Group busy at their tasks. A six weeks' training period is required of the members before they become active in the daily schedule. Activity in this service, bringing helpers into daily contact with the student body, develops such traits as dependability, tact, speed, and accuracy. The workers receive points for their work, since the club is a branch of Central's Service Club, and on Recognition Day receive either certificates or pins, according to how many points they have earned.

Members of the Library Service Group all work at the many tasks which are essential to keeping a good library orderly. They check, stamp, charge, stack, and shelve books, take attendance slips to study halls, and keep files in order.

There are two social meetings a semester. Library workers look with eagerness toward each semester's social meetings, since they are the only times that the group is all together. Social meetings feature games and contests to help the members get acquainted.

Miss Gertrude Beierlein, librarian, advises the Club. Arlene Meckstroth was president for the year.

Latin Club

- gives plays,
- studies Romans,
- likes its fun.

"HEY, KIDS, HURRY! I don't want to be late for Latin Club tonight." Once a month this cry can be heard in Central's halls as students rush to the Latin Club meeting. It may seem odd to those who don't belong, but members know what fun is in store for them at these meetings.

The last Thursday of each month. Latin Club members meet in Room 244 after school. These meetings are social and educational, for their purpose is to further appreciation of Latin and to broaden social life.

Through talks given by teachers and students, many uses of Latin are shown. One of the most interesting programs this year was the talk given by Mr. Charles D. Dilts on "Latin in Science."

Outstanding meetings are the annual Christmas party, at which the beautiful Christmas story is read in Latin, and the May picnic.

In addition to talks, sometimes small plays based on some Latin phase are given by members of the Club.

Francis Ray and Nina Buchanan were primus consul for each semester. The advisers are Miss Eva McKinnie and Miss Florence Lucasse, Latin teachers.

French Club

- holds Mardi Gras,
- sings in French,
- speaks in French.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS — French Club — one of the most interesting and entertaining clubs in Central, was founded in 1938 by Miss Mildred Brigham, French teacher.

For the topics of the meetings this year, the Club chose accounts on books about France or stories written by French authors. During these "seances," members sang gay French songs and played amusing word and card games. At the close of each indoor meeting, the Club sings the French National anthem, "La Marseillaise."

Besides those regular meetings there were special "seances." One of the most important was the feast of the Mardi Gras, which commemorates the actual French Mardi Gras on the first day of Lent. For this feast, "crepes" or pancakes were made and served with chocolate milk by the members, themselves. Other special meetings were the Halloween potluck, during which toasts were proposed in French, the annual Christmas party, and the Club breakfast at Foster Park. French toast and bacon, the customary refreshments, were served and everyone had a good time.

The requirements for membership in the French Club are two years of French and a grade in the subject averaging not lower than "B" minus.

Hi-Y

◆ builds on ideals,
◆ hears fine talks,
◆ faces the future.

DANCES, HAYRIDES, and banquets filled Central's Hi-Y Club calendar for the 1943-44 year.

The Hi-Y Club is now building upon its ideals of cleanliness in mind, body, and spirit more than ever before. At every meeting there have been interesting talks by important speakers. Lieutenant George Franklin Schultz, USN Ret., spoke of his experiences in naval intelligence while in Europe. Mr. Richardson, social science head, also spoke to the Club.

The annual Hi-Y Hayride was rained out this year, but the Club was still very active. Friday, February 18, the Club sponsored the Stag or Drag dance in the cafeteria. The Sweetheart Banquet was held in the spring with a big turnout and everyone had a good time.

The boys ushered at various civic meetings this year as one of their duties of being Club members. The monitor system was not resumed this year.

Many of our Central Hi-Y boys have gone to the Armed Forces. Deep in our hearts we know that our boys will be victorious because they are Central Hi-Y boys, boys who have been prepared to face the future with shoulders thrown back, chest out, chin up, and eyes forward to victory to preserve the right way of life.

Presidents for the year were: first semester, Jack Buckley; and second semester, Murray Mendenhall, Jr.

Mr. Ralph O. Virts is the adviser of the Hi-Y Club.—By FRANCIS RAY.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB was suitably named as can readily be seen when junior and senior girls get together at the meetings, whether they are religious or social.

To give the girls an opportunity to develop the three sides of their lives—mental, social, and spiritual—the Club activities, under the direction of Miss Helen Burr, adviser, consist of devotions, informal singing, discussions, games, service projects, and outside speakers.

Friendship does not limit the activities of the girls to Central alone. We have a chance to work and play with girls from the other high schools through Inter-Club Council meetings and Ring Circle gatherings at the YWCA, of which Friendship girls, as Girl Reserves, are junior members.

Traditional meetings of the year include candle-light initiation services and a spring tea. We also help with the annual Tournament Twirl.

By living up to our code: "Gracious in Manner, Impartial in Judgment, Ready for Service, Loyal to Friends, Reaching Toward the Best, Earnest in Purpose, Seeing the Beautiful, Eager for Knowledge, Reverent to God, Victorious Over Self, Ever Dependable, Sincere at All Times," we shall be well prepared to take our place in the world of tomorrow.—By BETTY FUHRMAN.

"WHY SHOULD I study? Who is delinquent, parent or child?" These are but a few of the questions upon which discussions were based during the past year of Delvers Club activities.

In every discussion, members look to the future of peace and better living. The year's discussion subjects contrasted sharply with those of former years, when famous women, radio, and literary composition were studied. During the year, members were given copies of Scholastic Magazine, which they used as a basis for literature study and entertainment.

The Christmas meeting was the highlight of the first semester. Imogene Elder was in charge of the program, Martha Dilts, decorations, and Marylou Ehrman, refreshments. The room was transformed into a lovely Christmas scene, with candles and a small Christmas tree. A gift exchange and Christmas carols provided a background for the Christmas story.

At the February meeting, new members were formally initiated, and new officers were installed.

The Mother and Daughter Tea, a traditional event of the Club, was held early in the spring. The activities formally closed with the traditional Spring Potluck, held in Foster Park.—By ALVERA BALDWIN.

BOXES PACKED FULL of food, toys, and games made happy needy families of the community at Christmas time. The project was under the direction of the Red Cross Club, aided by the co-operation of the students and faculty.

The Junior Red Cross Club plays a small but important part in a big organization. Any member of the Red Cross is an important link with the national organization.

On December 9, the Club made a collection of gifts among the students to send boxes to European children. At Christmas exchange the presents were donated by members after the party and put with the gift boxes.

Christmas menu covers and memo pads were made for the armed forces. The home economics department together with the Red Cross made clothing for convalescent soldiers.

The Red Cross held a skating party Friday, November 12, at Bell's Rink. The Art Club and Red Cross, combined, sponsored a pre-Christmas dance in cafeteria, Thursday, December 23. A spring picnic closed the activities of the Club for the year.

CTC

◆ discussions,
◆ and has fun!

TOASTING hot dogs and marshmallows over an open fire, the members of Cenral's Triangle Club enjoyed the annual wiener bake, held November 4 at Foster Park.

During the year, interesting speakers gave talks at the meetings. On November 18, Mrs. Chang, a former Chinese student of Central, gave an interesting talk on the customs and fashions of her native country. Olivia Zahki, sophomore, gave a talk on her life in Rumania, on the same day. At the December meeting, the members of the Club prepared a basket and presented it as a Christmas present to a needy family. New members were formally initiated during a candle-light service.

All freshman and sophomore girls are eligible to join the club. CTC is a Girl Reserve club and receives supervision and cooperation from the YWCA, as it is a branch of that organization.

The members of the club closed an eventful year with a spring picnic, held also in Foster Park.

Miss Jackson, CTC adviser, explains get-well cards that the girls plan to send to some of the members not in school.

Looms and textiles hold the attention of the Art Club, while Mrs. Mabel Bradley, professional weaver, explains patterns.

THE WORLD of tomorrow lies with the artists of today! This truth we learned from our meetings of the year. At a fall meeting we were honored to have Jane Vesey from Vesey's Flower Store, who demonstrated flower arrangement. At later meetings we saw movies of Persia and took a life mold from a student's face.

This year's activities have combined new ideas with old customs. The expenses and profits of the annual dance were shared with Red Cross Club. The old tradition of decorating the school at Christmas was carried out as in pervious years.

The point system has been tried this year with success. We planned that the three persons having the highest number of points over 100 would receive special honors on Recognition Day, and the three next in line, honorable mention.

Th Club's presidents for the year were Kathleen Coleman and Louise Wright. Miss Mildred K. Walker is the adviser of the Club.—By JOAN KARR.

BECOME MEMBERS

Press Club initiates repeat the obligation with hands on pen, slug, Caldron, and Spotlight.

"I WON'T be home for supper, Mom; Press Club's tonight." Such is the report of 32 members who once a month join in a potluck for some journalistic fun.

Membership in Press Club, started in 1937, is one of the highest honors a publications worker can receive. A Spotlight member must have 3,000 points, and a Caldron member must be named by the adviser and his staff head. One purpose of the Club is to promote closer union between the Caldron and the Spotlight, ordinarily engaged in friendly feuding between meetings. Each candidate is initiated, first very informally by a committee and, later, if he passes the initial test, formally by the officers in an impressive ceremony.

Officers for the year were Millard Gruber and Doris Ryder, presidents; Jane Brager and Charles Jacoby, vice presidents; and Ruth Essex and LaVon Bohde, secretaries-treasurers.

Quill and Scroll

- honors the best,
- meets at homes,
- likes to eat.

"LOTS OF FUN and plenty of food." So it is with Quill and Scroll Society. Acting upon the theory that "all work and no play makes Johnnie a dull boy," the members of Quill and Scroll meet for social evenings at the homes of members.

Membership in the Leah F. Austin Chapter of Quill and Scroll Society is based on service, scholarship, and contributions made to the publications. This club is exclusive, having only senior members until the final meeting in June, when a few juniors are initiated to carry on the group.

This year's Society membership started off with six leaders in publications—Norman Doenges, LaVon Bohde, Doris Ryder, Ruth Essex, Catherine Plescher, and Millard Gruber — all initiated last June. The Society remained a six-member organization until February, when Beatrice Aldred was named the seventh member. In March three new members—Irma Fahling, Grace Graft, and Patty Richardson—were initiated.

Booster Club

- boosts morale,
- sells at games,
- makes shakers.

WE OF THE Booster Club have experienced a year of reorganization and planning under the direction of our new advisers, Mrs. Dorothea Johnson and Miss Arleth Carvin. Besides carrying on our old activities, we have established new rules of procedure and a special point system by which the value of members is determined.

Early in September, we got off to a good start when we elected Dale Carder our chairman for the year. Doris Chamberlain was elected as secretary but after her graduation in January was replaced by Eleanor Lambroff.

Possibly the greatest step forward was taken when the Club formally ratified a Booster constitution early in March. Norman Doenges, Don Butler, and Bob Gillie were members of the constitution committee.

New members are elected annually by the advisory council, composed of six members. New Boosters are chosen largely on the basis of their extra-curricular activities and industriousness.

Our annual events, the Tiger Mixer, the Booster Banquet, the Valentine Pep Session, and the Tiger Hop, had unusual success this year under the supervision of such active members as Mona Lou O'Shaughnessy, Dorothy Cooper, Patricia Davenport, Don Butler, and Joan Cottingham.

All in all, we Boosters feel that our organization has made a definite contribution toward the realization of a happy, successful future.

"LIGHTS, places, curtain!" Miss Suter has carefully made up the characters to fit their parts and everyone nervously takes his place before she gives the signal for the curtain to rise. The familiar ring of the bell is heard, and as the opening lines of the play are spoken, the players immediately lose all stage fright and the play is performed successfully.

Student Players Club (SPC) is one of the most active organiztions at Central. Each month a meeting is held to settle general business and to present plays by program committees. Plays are presented for the public throughout the year, while the stage crew members work diligently back stage.

To begin the year's activities, the seniors gave two enjoyable one-act plays, "Jack" and "A Lovely Meeting." Later the seniors scored again with the presentation of their class play, "Freckles." At Yuletide the juniors made their stage debut with the beautiful and inspiring Christmas play, "The Lost Church."

At the end of the year, awards are given by Miss Suter to those who have worked hard to earn them. Thus the curtain falls to end the activities of Student Players Club for the year. —By NELLIE MALOLEY.

CENTRAL'S music department affords musical training for those who participate and provides cultural enjoyment for all Centralites.

The Orchestra presents several concerts a year for the student body, one of which is the annual Christmas presentation. It has also participated in radio programs.

The Band adds enthusiasm to all football and basketball games. It, too, gives concerts for the enjoyment of the students of Central. Officers of the Band are: president, Yale Norris; librarian, William Vining; treasurer, Donald Foland.

The Music Council was formed by Mr. Bailhe to meet problems of the Band, Orchestra, Chorus, and Choir. This organization has done many worthwhile things this year. Members are Norris, Vining, Roma Jill Surfus, Paul Rehling, JoAnn Hartman, Mary Fowler, Virginia Dare, and Imogene Reasoner.

Mr. Robert Shambaugh directs the Chorus and A Cappella Choir. The Chorus meets the first and second periods every day, while the Choir meets the third period daily. During the year, the combined Choir and Chorus presented joint concerts with the rest of the music department. Central's A Cappella Choir is recognized as a rising musical organization, showing marked progress this year.

SPIRITED DISCUSSIONS, forums, Back-to-School Day, and school dances — all these are the projects which the P-TA, founded in 1897, has sponsored or encouraged during the past year at Central.

"Community Life in a Democracy" was the 1943-44 general theme. Around this theme was woven a year of interesting meetings, consisting of "Funfest," the first meeting of the year, held October 12 in the cafeteria, the January 6 meeting, at which the Teen Canteen was discussed, and the "Family Fanfare" dance, held in the cafeteria February 4.

"We're working harder, doing a bigger job than ever before, and looking forward to the future welfare of all young folks," stated Mrs. Aubrey Lash, president, speaking of P-TA plans.

Officers for the year were: Mrs. Lash, president; Mrs. Karl Schwartz, vice president; Mrs. Ralph O. Virts, second vice president; Mrs. Ed Thomas, secretary; Mrs. Arthur Doenges, treasurer; and members at large, Mrs. Millard Gruber and Mrs. Edwin Lindenberg.—By OCTAVIA POPE.

HEALTH, LOVE OF GAMES AND FAIR

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION program at Central — physical fitness, intra-mural games, the Girls Exhibition, inter-school sports — is designed with a view to the future. After four years of gymnasium training, pupils are better enabled to serve their country in winning the war. They learn life-time values of quick decision, fair play, good health, and wise employment of leisure in games and sports. The fighting spirit of our Tigers will live in the endeavors of Central's many graduates.

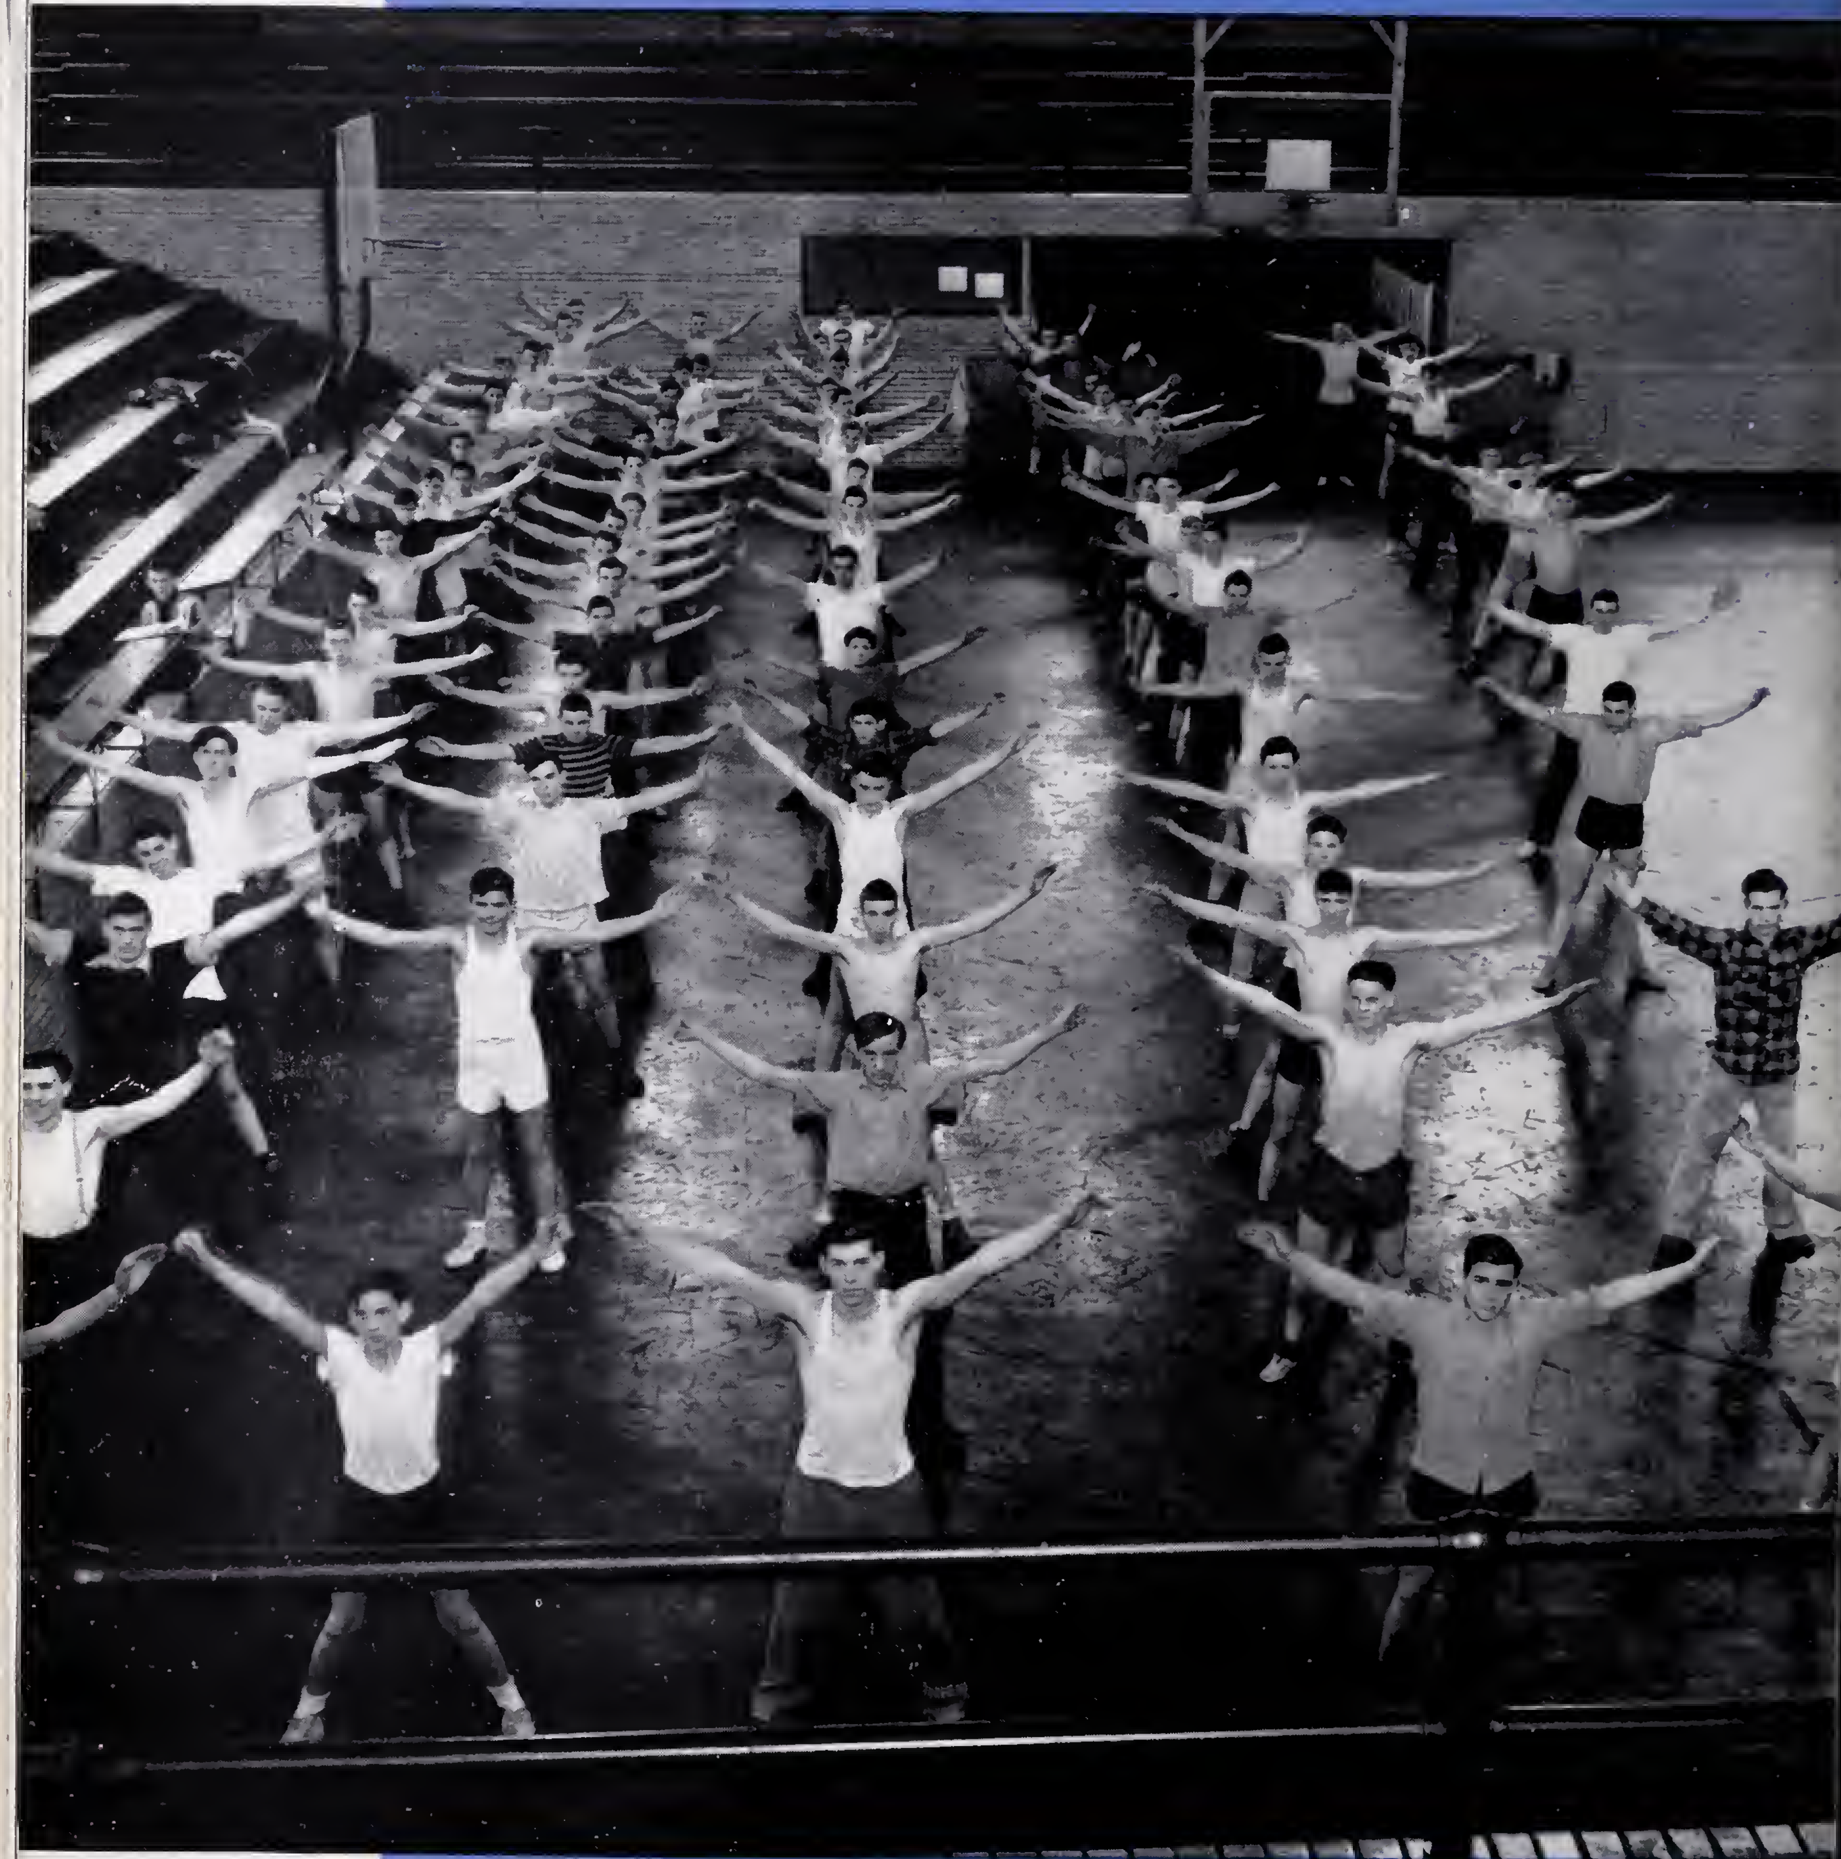
Boys and Girls at Central



THESE BOYS in Mr. Worthman's gym class, taking directions in calisthenics, are here doing the "Jumping Jack" exercise. These routine gym drills will better enable young men of Central to pass the physical requirements of the Armed Services, to which all are looking forward.

Tigers Plunge to Victory in Seven of Ten Games

By Carl Klemme

CENTRAL'S FIGHTING TIGERS thundered through another succesful football campaign last fall by winning seven gridiron games and losing only three.

Lacking weight in some positions, the Bengals were raised high in the ranks of the state's best gridders by their speed and drive accompanied by that all-important will to win.

The Blue line, displaying an agressive style of play, blocked, tackled, and ripped open holes in the opposition in fine form. The backfield had the ability to pass, plunge through center, and circle ends for the many Tiger touchdowns.

The Bengals did not fare so well against city schools as they did against distant squads. The Bengals won three battles with out-of-town teams, and lost only one, compared to three wins and two losses in city competition.

Five Tigers were placed on the all-city team. Max Seiss gained end position. Big Benny Shopoff placed at left tackle berth. Shopoff was the only one to be on the all-star squad twice. Murray Mendenhall Jr. was elected to quarterback spot, and Max Ramsey was chosen as a halfback. Paul "Banjo" Bienz was a unanimous choice at fullback. He was elected honorary captain.

Win 24 Tilts, Fight on to Muncie

By Carl Klemme

CENTRAL'S BATTLING Bengals powered their way to another of their usually successful basketball seasons with the enviable record of 24 victories and only five defeats, including all tournament play.

Those high-stepping Tigers surmounted all obstacles in their determined march through a tough schedule of formidable foes to the conquest of the sectional and regional crowns. Finally, however, Uncle Sam interfered with Central's hopes of retaining its state championship by calling for All-State Guard Murray Mendenhall, Jr., and Star Center Bob Armstrong, a blow the Blue survived only partially.

The fast-breaking squad opened the season by thundering through eight consecutive net victories before suffering their first loss and then rolled on to finish a regular schedule of 19 games with only two more defeats. In the process the Tigers marked up a perfect record over all out-of-town foes and lost only three games in city competition.

In addition to the seasonal grind, the Blue competed in a New Year's invitational tourney at Muncie, where they split even in two games, being nosed by Elwood, but then trouncing Marion soundly.

Central's annexation of the sectional crown in four games was featured by its perfect game against South Side, 50 to 39. It was after this beautiful exhibition of basketball that Armstrong and Mendenhall left, but the others carried on to triumph twice in the regionals and once in the super-regionals before losing out to Kokomo in the night game.

Basketball Lettermen

RON LEWTON, playing his second year as varsity forward, is noted for fast, clean play and accurate shooting.

GLEN GARDINER, senior guard, deserves much credit for his spirited brand of ball and quick thinking.

BOB COX, sophomore, playing one year as varsity guard, is cool and handles the ball neatly in fast games.

MAX RAMSEY, senior all-state forward, and fastest man on the court, has played for Central three years.

DICK SCHMIDT, center, displayed a tight defense and a fighting spirit in his first and last year of varsity play.

BOB ARMSTRONG, 6 feet 3 inches, one of the best centers in the state, noted for deliberate one-handed shots.

JOE BIGGS, sophomore center, is noted for his supreme handling of the ball and cool thinking in hardwood games.

RAY CHAMBERS, senior, serving the varsity forward post for his second year, always comes through when the pressure is on.

PAUL BIENZ, senior, three years a guard, is a very fast player, a hard fighter, and an asset to the squad.

BOB MUGG, senior and consistent guard, figures greatly in Central's successes with his spectacular offensive and defensive play.

MURRAY MENDENHALL, senior all-state guard and a vital cog in the Tiger attack, is perhaps the most colorful player.

Track . . .

CENTRAL'S Tiger thinlies once more burned the track this year to gain high recognition for the Blue and White in the State's sports annals.

Last season, the battling Bengals powered their way to an honored third place in the State meet, and with several veterans back, the Blue should do equally well in the championship meet to be held May 20. The Blue gained particular recognition in the dashes, where the defending State 100- and 220-yard champions, Max Ramsey and Paul Bienz, parried for top honors all season.

The crack half-mile team had a particularly successful year, rolling on to many victories. Bienz and Ramsey were the chief men on the team, with Bob Mugg and Bill Eshcoff filling the remaining two positions admirably. Joe Biggs did the hurdling for the Tigers, and, along with Bill Grimme, did the high jumping. Myron Pio was the miler.

DIRECTOR MURRAY MENDENHALL, Indiana State Championship coach, always produces good teams. He has served Central since 1924.

Says Our Coach . .

"COMPETITIVE sports provide benefits that are appreciated both later in life and at present. These sports create bodily powers that are characteristic of true men. They tend to build up endurance, strength, and coordination of mind and muscle. They promote clean life, an objective all should reach. While bringing a person into general good health this competition affords wholesome entertainment for all participants. Nothing is more fun than getting out on a football field or basketball floor, and giving all you have, constantly keeping victory and all that goes with it in mind. All in all, competitive sports play an important role in keeping one physically fit, mentally awake, and morally straight."

Coach Worthman Speaks . .

"'FALL IN! Attention! Heads up! Shoulders Back! Stomachs in! Feet together!' From the far corners of the world comes this cry today. The physical education program in schools now is that of getting one's body and mind in shape so that he may serve his country and himself the best way possible in this 'physical fitness' age. Let's take these two words apart to see what they mean: 'P'—physique. 'H'—health. 'Y'—youth. 'S'—speed. 'I'—instinct. 'C'—co-operation. 'A'—agility. 'L'—leadership. 'F'—fortitude. 'I'—initiative. 'T'—toughness. 'N'—necessity. 'E'—endurance. 'S'—strategy. 'S'—strength."

COACH ROBERT WORTHMAN drills physical fitness classes and assists Mr. Mendenhall.

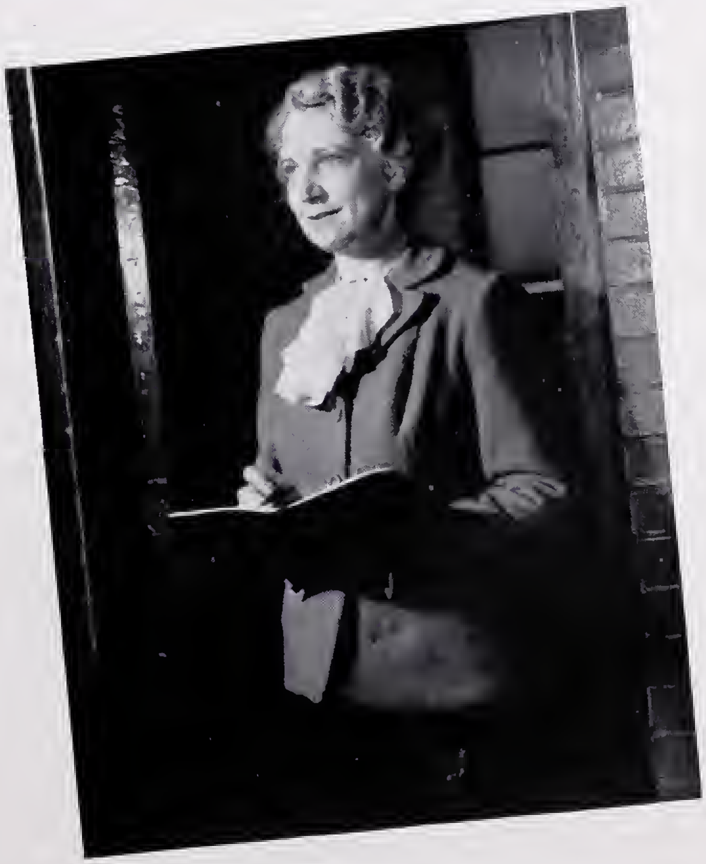
Miss Adams Explains . .

"CENTRAL'S physical education program serves a variety of purposes, of which the most obvious is building strong, healthy bodies. Indirectly this program improves the mental health of pupils and results in better standings scholastically and general improvement in attitudes. Alertness and determination are only two of the many aids to study which participation in sports develops; also, sportsmanship, comradeship, and the ability to make quick and correct decisions, necessities in successful sports competition, are vital to anyone who desires a complete and happy life. These and similar aims are constant goals for which every physical director strives."

Miss Ingham Says . .

"OUR PROGRAM of physical education should help girls to answer the following questions: Will you be able to take part sucessfully in sports and related activities after leaving school? Have you acquired sufficient dance training for rhythm and poise? Do you know the fun of team sports? Are you posture conscious and do you know what to do to improve your posture? Can you endure a strenuous day of work or play without becoming too tired? Are you a good sport? If you can answer 'yes,' the program is a sound one, and you are what we call 'physically educated.' "



MISS MERIBAH INGHAM, adviser of CGAA and coach of the junior and senior girls, calls the roll of her morning gym class.

CENTRAL Girls Athletic Association was founded 19 years ago in 1925 under the leadership of Miss Hilda Schwen and the first president, Esther French. Although there had already been activity in girls sports, Central was the first school in Fort Wayne to take the important step of forming a girls athletic association, which has contributed greatly to the improvement of girls sports.

Down through all the years these girls not only carried on an intensive athletic campaign among themselves, but also endeavored to spread such interest among all girls of the school. Play Day will continue to be the favorite annual activity with the girls as it has been for the past eight years; they have their own cheering section together in their favorite spot of the boys gym during games and pep sessions; they originated the little blue and white "beanies" that the Boosters now sell; they have their own tournaments — own champions and winning teams; and many of their girls are the athletic instructors of the future.

Each year the Club rises in standards and accomplishments. This year it is at its height financially, but in membership has decreased because of working conditions.

Girls in sports are inspired by two athletic instructors, Miss Meribah Ingham and Miss Emma Adams. The officers this year are Naomi Meier, president; Elizabeth Shearer, vice president; Barbara Keplinger, secretary; Connie Lindenberg, point recorder; and Deloris Denis, treasurer. Miss Meribah Ingham is the adviser of the Club. Regular meetings are held.

FOUR YEARS, EACH YEAR!

CENTRALITES, during the four years they spend at Central, are given training that will be put to good use after they have graduated. From the time they first enter the building, they sense the democratic spirit of Central and realize that here at last is real American thinking. Making friends, gaining education, and preparing for the years to come, constitute the daily life of Centralites. Here are pictures of our seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen.

1944 Best Citizens

THE McCLOUD CUP, presented by Miss Erdean McCloud in 1928, is awarded to two seniors termed the "best citizens" of Central. The choice is based upon scholarship, character, attendance, service to the school, and extracurricular activities. Central groups, students, and faculty cast ballots, and the boy and girl who get the most votes become the best boy and girl citizens.

This year, the proud possessors of the McCloud Cup are Patricia Davenport and Norman Doenges. Patricia was very active in speech, dramatics, and other organizations. Doenges edited The Spotlight, participated in dramatics, and belonged to numerous clubs. Both are members of National Honor Society. The award was made at a special honor meeting, Monday, April 17, in the auditorium. Members of the four-year honor roll and spring members of National Honor Society were also named at this meeting.

Best Citizens of 1943 were Edwin Lindenberg and Jean Sauer; of 1942, Alan Temple and Lucile Hallien.

Seniors View the Future

By Joan Cottingham and Nellie Maloley

WE HAVE spent four glorious years at Central preparing for the future which we now rush to meet. Our class will carry the name and honor of Central to all the world.

In our freshman year we elected John Stettler president and sponsored a skating party. Francis Ray led our sophomore class and again we undertook a skating party. In our junior year we elected Don Butler president, and sponsored two dances, the "Snowflake Frolic" and our elaborate Prom, "Arabian Nights." Our drama students excelled in our Christmas play. The following year, we returned to Central in the fall, no longer as underclassmen, but as the leaders of the school, the Senior Class. Later we gave our successful class play, "Freckles."

Outstanding seniors were chosen as members of National Honor Society. Valedictorian and Salutatorian were announced as well as Best Citizens and four-year honor roll. We held our senior banquet in January, and in the spring, the National Honor Society banquet. We left the gym on Recognition Day proud possessors of hard-earned awards. And so, with eyes that look to the future, to "Central, Dear Central," we sadly say, "Adieu!"

Graduation Day! Every Freshman looks forward to the day when he can wear the traditional cap and gown, and yet, when he is a senior, he tries to fill his last year of school with accomplishments, to make even more meaningful the long-awaited day. On this page are some outstanding seniors who won awards during their senior year. OUR FACULTY, WISE AND CAPABLE,

ADMINISTRATION AND faculty, pointing the way in offices and classrooms, guide Central pupils in the right paths to future happiness. In the offices, administrators form policies, apply principles, check attendance, and keep records for future reference. In the classrooms, teachers instruct not only for the present but also for the future well-being of the pupils. The influence of Central's faculty goes with Centralites from the classrooms into the adult world.

OINTS TO A HAPPY FUTURE

HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

Mrs. Lane, head of the English department, confers with Mr. Butler, well-known instructor, and Miss Zweig, Central alumna and newest addition to our faculty. Miss Zweig was once the pupil of Mrs. Lane. Hundreds of Central alumni have profited from the personality, enthusiasm, and teaching of Mrs. Lane.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OFFICES

SCHOOL BOARD

MR. ABBETT SAYS:

"continue education"

THE CLOSE of the year will reflect how well you have met the opportunities offered for your improvement.

You have, in commendable manner, given yourselves seriously to the various assignments of your school year. We urge you, each one, to continue your education to the completion of the high school course and beyond. The pupils who leave school because of a high wage offered in industry are denying themselves a good future where training would afford them security through the years.

These are the years of greatest opportunity for you. The future will bring you opportunity greater than at any time in the past. We know more of you will rise to share because you will be prepared in greater numbers; you will become leaders because of genuine worthiness. Keep faith in yourselves and in the triumph of right and justice for every one of your fellow men.

Merle J. Abbett.

Superintendent. Franklin College, A.B., Columbia University, A.M. Came to Fort Wayne in 1932.

MR. CRONINGER SAYS:

"we shall be ready"

CENTRAL High School always looks to the future! What we do today is a preparation for tomorrow. Do you study algebra, English, physics, today? If you do, you are preparing for your assignment tomorrow. Are you studying so you can receive a high school diploma? If you are, you want it largely for what it is worth in the future. It will get you a job, it will enter you in college, it will give you a chance in the Navy.

Central can point to the past for evidences of achievements of her teachers and graduates in business, in the professions, in industry, in the ministry, in medicine, in law, in welfare.

We are working each present day so that whatever the future brings, we shall be ready to take our place whether it be war or peace, hard or easy, pleasant or unpleasant, but, whatever it is, we shall be ready.

Yes, Central looks to the future.

Fred H. Croninger

Principal. Heidelberg College, B.A., Columbia University, M. A. Came to Central in 1913.

Miss Lewis helps Marylou Felts and Peggy Ginther arrange their Valentine Pep Session costumes in her office.

ANNA B. LEWIS. Dean of Girls. Indiana University, A. B., graduate work in Columbia University, University of Wisconsin, Butler University, and Indiana University. Came to Central in 1924.

Dean Anna B. Lewis

has Central at heart

• always •

"CENTRAL looks to the future! Her eyes turn constantly toward the East, the West, the North, and the South, to welcome her children home," recently stated Miss Anna B. Lewis, Dean of Girls, in speaking of the relation of Central to the future. "Eagerly Central awaits America's destiny and stands ready to bend every energy to the training of her future students, that they may live happily and peacefully in our democracy," Miss Lewis went on to say. "Central, students and faculty, looks with hope to a better, peaceful world."

Offices Are Busy

GUIDANCE Director Mildred J. Brigham, like Mr. Anthony of the air, worries about other people's problems. Many pupils are grateful to Miss Brigham for help she has given them in selecting their programs, finding outside work, and planning the future. In this picture, Barbara Mendenhall and Alvera Baldwin assist.

THE POST-WAR world will be built in part by Central graduates who gained their technical skills under the guidance of Mr. George H. Russell, supervisor of Central's shops. Mr. Russell, here checking reports in his modern office, is also director of Fort Wayne's War Production Training Program.

CHECKING and recording programs for 1,800 Centralites are Miss Delores Hamman, clerk, and Mrs. Phyllis Bryie, secretary. Theirs is the steady and essential work of typing, recording, filing, and assisting Mr. Croninger. Years from now, records of pupils' credits—and grades—will be here in this orderly office.

MEMBERS of the Service Club, this seventh period group who sort the hundred and more absence slips each day for Mrs. Celia Winter, attendance clerk. This group includes Eileen Vodde, Wanda Strong, Ethel Foster, Geraldine Mohr, Eileen Lloyd, Delma Hughes, Wanda Harden, Barbara Rasor, Donna Axt, Margaret Metheny, Ann Miller, Mary Lou Carter, and Alvera Baldwin.

ALWAYS BUSY
"Teachers' work is never done." This statement could well be applied to these teachers who are recording semester grades in the office. Here at work are Mr. R. K. Butler and Miss Marian Ingham, assisted by Rena Springer, senior.

TO YOU who look ahead, Central entrusts her future. And now The Caldron thanks you all and bids you all
